Racial Lines Diminish In Face of Enemy Fire

CU CHI, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong bullets recognize no race, and U.S. soldiers under fire tend to ignore the color line altogether.

In a brutal firefight 25 miles west of Saigon near the 25th Division's 2nd Brigade headquarters this week, 4 George Newman, a Baltimore Negro, rested his wounded hip in a trench, leaning his back against a white comrade.

Fifty yards to the front of the trench lay three wounded or dead Americans, no one knew which. All were white.

Newman's platoon from A Company of the 2nd Battalion, 27th Infantry Regiment, was assigned to get the men back from the no-man's land repeatedly lashed by sniper fire.

An artillery barrage was laid down 100 yards ahead of the platoon. Men of the platoon leaped out of the trench and raced across the open ground.

Despite his wound, Newman was among the half-dozen racing men. Because of his injury, Newman was a little slower. Perhaps that's why he was hit by a bullet which ripped open his side.

Two men quickly crawled to Newman, grabbed him under the arms and hauled the stricken man back. One was Negro, one was white.

Back in the trench, a white buddy whipped out bandages and began binding up Newman's wound.

Exposing himself to fire to aid Newman, he called out: "Give me a stretcher, get me a god dam stretcher."

The white soldier stayed with Newman until he could be taken to the rear.

A Marine battalion commander once said: "These's still a racial problem in the corps, but it gets less and less the further forward you go. I've very seldom seen it in front-line companies."

U.S. military units have been integrated for years. Off duty there usually seems to be little mixing between the races. But when men from line companies get a bit of time off for a night in Saigon or Da Nang, they often integrate their drinking.

After the fighting at Cu Chi died down, one sergeant said: "There just isn't much room for racial problems out here. Everyone's got to depend on his buddies for survival."

Rains Pose Flood Danger

Ohio River Area Remains Alert

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General rains throughout Ohio were adding to flood dangers Wednesday just as there appeared to be a slackening in the rate of rise of streams pouring into the Ohio River.

Thus far, Ohio River points and communities on the swollen tributaries were having only "nuisance" difficulties of high water—but the Weather Bureau pointed out prolonged rains could reverse that situation.

In the watershed of the swollen Scioto River, the rainfall had averaged just under two-tenths of an inch since it began at midnight Tuesday. The Weather Bureau said this amount is not enough to set up much of a rise, but it will stop the falling tendency of the past 24 hours.

However, weathermen pointed out that a half to three-quarters of an inch of rain may fall today and early tonight and this amount could be significant.

Only minor flooding of the Ohio has occurred thus far, seeping into the low areas of river towns such as Marietta, Portsmouth and Pomeroy. But all these points reported the river either having crested, or stationary Wednesday morning.

The river crested at Marietta at 39.4 feet and before the latest rains came rivermen had estimated it would fall to 39 feet by Friday. Flood stage is 36 feet. Some low-lying street areas along the river have received water and some basements had to be evacuated.

The Hocking River at Athens was reported falling steadily before the latest rains. The Little Miami and Great Miami rivers also were reported receding.

U.S. military units have been integrated for years. Off duty there usually seems to be little mixing between the races. But when men from line companies get a bit of time off for a night in Saigon or Da Nang, they often integrate their drinking.

Power Unit Gas Kills 17 Workers

LOCARNO, Switzerland (AP) — Seventeen workmen were suffocated Tuesday night by a cloud of poisonous gas at a remote Swiss mountain power station.

An official at the power plant said the gas was of carbonic origin.

Fifteen of the workmen were Italian. An Italian investigation commission arrived today, and details of the inquiry were withheld until its completion.

Police said the dense cloud of yellow gas swept through a tunnel north of Locarno, where a power station has been under construction for several years, shortly before 15 Italian workers were to end the evening shift.

The foremen sounded the alarm and slowly withdrew into the tunnel ahead of the gas. He was killed. Two Swiss fire guards who rushed in after him also were overcome and died.

The other 14 workers suffocated when an air current drove the gas through the tunnel from south to north.

The tunnel runs under Basodino Mountain where the Robbier power station is being built. It links the two small Alpine valleys of Di Maggio and Bedretto.

Fresh Debate Over Viet Nam Is Expected

Senate Faces Bill To Provide Funds For Fighting Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate plunges into fresh argument today over Viet Nam with days of crackling debate in prospect before its expected overwhelming passage of a military supply bill.

Nearly 30 senators have notified the leadership they want an opportunity to discuss President Johnson's Southeast Asia policies before they vote on a $4.8-billion authorization measure. It covers part of the $12.3-billion emergency money request for Viet Nam outlays.

Acting Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana declined a request by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a critic of Johnson's Viet Nam policies, to delay consideration of the bill until next week.

"Frankly," he said, "the funds to support our men who are fighting in Viet Nam are a critical matter and I very much doubt the wisdom of further delay."

Morse, in a telegram Tuesday to Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, recuperating in Florida from a respiratory illness, said that debate should be delayed until after the appearance of administration witnesses before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former ambassador to Saigon and a presidential adviser, is scheduled to appear Thursday. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will be Friday's witness.

Church Group Appeals to U.S., Reds

GENEVA (AP) — The World Council of Churches urged the United States today to stop bombing North Viet Nam to help bring peace to Southeast Asia.

The organization of 214 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic churches also appealed to North Viet Nam to halt its infiltration of the South.

A 10-point appeal urged a wide range of measures including admission of Communist China to the United Nations and the inclusion of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in any South Viet Nam negotiations.

The appeal particularly stressed "the futility" of military effort in Viet Nam.

The World Council said it is hopeful for joint action to peace in Viet Nam with Roman Catholic authorities and the Vatican.

It called on the United States to modify its policy of containment of communism and appealed to the Communist nations to stop supporting revolutionary movements.

The council's resolution, highlighting a 10-day meeting in its world headquarters here, underlined concern about the turn of events in Viet Nam.

Cleric Seeks Audience with Castro

WAYNESBORO, Ga. (AP) —

Thrust into an unfamiliar world of embassies, diplomats and red tape, a soft-spoken Georgia minister is working diligently to obtain his son's release from a Cuban prison.

The Rev. Clifton E. Fite, 62, pastor of Rosemont Heights Baptist Church, has traveled thousands of miles during the past six months, written volumes of letters and spent hundreds of dollars on telephone calls to free his 32-year-old missonary son, David.

Young Fite, after five years as a Baptist missionary in Cuba, was jailed in April 1965, on charges of conspiring against the Cuban government. His wife and three small sons are in Cuba.

The elder Fite feels no bitterness towards anyone connected with the arrest. "My only interest is in the release of my son and his safe return to this country," he says.

He is attempting to arrange a face-to-face meeting with Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Efforts to free his son put him in contact with Georgia Sens. Herman Talmadge and Richard B. Russell and several officials of the State Department. His application for a visa has been sent to Castro through the Czechoslovakian Embassy. So far he has heard nothing.

The State Department and the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention worked without success for six months to obtain David's release.

The patient hope of Fite and his wife, a teacher in the Waynesboro High School, has been a source of admiration to their acquaintances.

Confidence has marked all their efforts. Fite has not missed a Sunday sermon at his church. Mrs. Fite goes to the classroom every day.

Most of the expense of the Fite crusade has been met by contributions of friends and church groups. Fite's financial resources are limited.

Local YMCA Program Under Study

A group of local men is in the process of exploring factors that could lead to the creation of a YMCA program here.

Undertaking an investigative approach are John Jenkins, a Second Ward councilman; Robert Johnson, local businessman; William Shockley, Du Pont executive; and Richard Snouffer, Circleville High School principal.

Jenkins, who has conducted extensive research concerning all aspects of YMCA functions, said the current aim is to establish a committee of 20 to 25 persons who are sincerely interested in such a program here.

Walter I. Jacoby, Ohio-West Virginia Area YMCA official, is scheduled to come here in the near future to offer key information on how an operation can be established.

THE FOUR local men already have been briefed by Richard W. Wilson, suburban branch executive at the Columbus-Franklin County YMCA.

Wilson said a vital phase in establishing a program is a show of community interest and the willingness of individuals to participate.

Solons Take Another Look At City Development Plan

Key topics on Circleville Council's Tuesday night agenda included a discussion concerning a comprehensive development plan for the city.

A development plan for the city has been considered to various degrees since 1958 when initial work on a master plan was conducted.

An extensive effort was launched in 1964 and again in 1965. Although the first two attempts met with only limited success, Council appears determined to map a program again this year.

A new approach was sanctioned earlier when the solons appropriated $5,000 in this year's budget for development purposes. However, this is only about half the amount needed for preparation of a plan, according to a community planning firm that has been working closely with the city since 1964.

THE CONSULTING firm Candeub, Fleissig & Associates, already has prepared a proposed work program in connection with a comprehensive plan for Circleville.

Actual preparation of a development plan for the city would cost in the neighborhood of $28,500. Providing federal aid could be obtained, then Circleville's share would be about $9,800.

Robert Burgin, a representative of Candeub-Fleissig, has informed Council that it would be possible to undertake a program on a two-year basis in order to lessen the yearly appropriation. He said personnel from his firm would expect to be here for about a year to conduct studies necessary in formulating a plan.

According to Burgin, a local comprehensive plan would include preparation of a base map, natural resources study and development program, economic study and development program, population study, neighborhood analysis, land use study and preliminary plan, traffic and transportation study and preliminary plan, community facilities study and preliminary plan, central business district study, comprehensive development plan, capital improvements program and budget, zoning ordinance, subdivision regulations and general report on plan execution and review.

Solon Robert Turner noted last night that the planning firm has consented to assist the city in preparation of a building code if Council decides to proceed with preparation of a comprehensive plan.

Turner's report was in response to a request by Robert Kenworthy, president of the Pickaway County Contractors Assn., to schedule a meeting (Continued on Page 2)

Open House Due At Welfare Site

Open House will be observed Friday afternoon at the Pickaway County Welfare Department's new headquarters on E. Mound St.

Mrs. Pauline Reese, department director, said her offices will be open to public visitation from 1 to 5 p. m. The new location, purchased by the county late last year, is the former Heine residence and one-time family home of showman Ted Lewis.

Welfare Department operations were moved from the Courthouse to the Mound St. site early this month.

Japanese Notes Comfort Family of Slain Marine

ISELIN, N. J. (AP)—Until a few days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Risoldi had few material things to remind them of their 18-year-old Marine son killed in Viet Nam.

There was the large American flag that had draped his coffin, the spent rifle shells given them by the honor guard that fired a volley over his grave, a $25 U.S. defense bond purchased with money the son had sent home just before his death.

Then an article about the parents and the death of their son, Pfc. Vincent Risoldi, appeared in a Japanese newspaper — Yomiuri Shimbun.

Since then, things have not been the same at the Risoldi household.

"We have received over 100 letters from Japanese children, teen-agers and adults telling us how much they sympathize with us and how they have offered prayers for our boy, Chipper," Mrs. Risoldi said.

Most of the letters are beautiful in the simplicity of their wording — youngsters using

Series E, H Savings Units Both Boosted

Old Issues Due To Draw New Revenue Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an increase of four-tenths of 1 per cent in the interest rate on Series E and H savings bonds, and make it effective as of last Dec. 1.

Johnson said the new rate, which will apply both to bonds already outstanding and new issues, will be 4.15 per cent. The present rate is 3.75 per cent.

The President could have raised the rate as high as 4.25 per cent without additional congressional action.

The increase is intended not only to make savings bonds a more attractive investment but by stimulating bond sales — as the administration hopes it will — to help avert inflation.

In announcing the increase, Johnson said the savings bond program strengthens the security of the American family and the economy of the nation, supports the cause of freedom and U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam, and helps preserve the buying powers of our dollars.

The effective date of the increase is Dec. 1, 1965. Bonds purchased since then will earn the new rate, and it will apply as to that date to bonds bought earlier.

On Series E Bonds the increase will be accomplished, the Treasury Department said, by reducing the maturity date to seven years. Under the 3.75 per cent interest rate, Series E bonds matured in seven years, nine months.

On Series H bonds the in-

Rhodes Foe May Stage Write-in

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "My friends say they are going to write in my name if I lose in court," said William L. White of Mount Vernon after asking the Ohio Supreme Court Tuesday to order his name placed on the May 3 Republican ballots for governor.

And White added, he has a lot of friends—pointing out he carried 37 counties in losing the 1964 GOP primary for congressman-at-large. He noted he got 210,000 votes compared to the 60,000 he drew in 1962 as James A. Rhodes' gubernatorial nomination rival, and figured he could draw 325,000 and beat Gov. Rhodes this time.

White, 70, went to court after Secretary of State Ted W. Brown ruled him ineligible for the 1966 primary for lack of valid signatures on his petitions.

Tired of Drive, He Rows to Work

SEATTLE (AP) — A.W. Hallberg took a job with the Boeing Co. last month as a methods analyst. Now he's using a new method to get to work.

So Hallberg, who was a commercial fisherman during his college days and served in the Coast Guard, took to the water. Each trip now takes 10 minutes of rowing and 10 of walking.

Little Walnut Watershed District Is Proposed Here

A move, initiated in Pickaway County, is under way to form a Small Watershed District for Little Walnut Creek.

An initial survey has indicated a watershed development program along Little Walnut Creek in Pickaway, Franklin and Fairfield Counties is feasible.

United States Department of Agriculture officials and committees composed of local farmers discussed action needed to initiate the program during a preliminary meeting Tuesday at Tink's Tavern.

Pearl Fogle, district conservationist, outlined proper procedures to follow. He emphasized that formation of a project was a slow process from the talking stage to actual construction of flood control structures.

A WATERSHED district is not limited to flood control, he pointed out, but could provide village or municipal water supplies, utilize water impoundments for recreation, clear up pollution in streams and provide channel renovation.

The watershed district must have a sponsoring agency, which may be county commissioners, soil conservation districts, municipalities or villages.

Two watersheds have already been started in Fairfield County. The Upper Hocking was a pilot project and is completed. The Rush Creek Watershed has passed the planning stage and construction is scheduled to start soon.

The federal government, under public law 565, bears the cost of construction. Property owners who benefit pay for land acquisition.

Fogle pointed out the local share of the cost usually runs about 12½ per cent of the total benefit.

Attending yesterday's meeting from Pickaway County were Austin Dowden, Don Archer, George Hamrick, Don Hedges, Everett Beers, Homer Cromley, Lincoln Brown, Bill Plum and J. Wright Noecker.

ANOTHER member of the local committee studying the potential of a small watershed district is Charles McCray. He was unable to attend yesterday's meeting.

Everett Beers was named chairman of the local committee. Panels also have been formed in Fairfield and Franklin Counties.

High Court OKs Triple Execution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today set March 18 for the triple execution of three men for the fatal beating of Emma Austing, 76-year-old widow, to learn the combination of a safe in her home near Loveland, Cincinnati suburb.

The last triple execution in Ohio Penitentiary's electric chair was in 1939, Warden E. L. Maxwell said.

In setting the date, the high court affirmed, 6-1, the first-degree murder convictions of Lester Eugene Swiger, Curtis A. Bellamy and Elmer Glen Miller.

Mrs. Austing, who lived alone on a farm, was beaten the night of May 5, 1963, by two men. She died May 20 in Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, Cincinnati, of a massive blood clot on her lungs.

Miller, a tenant on the Austing farm, and Swiger were arrested in Los Angeles, Calif., May 30. In a tape-recording by Hamilton County authorities, Swiger admitted that he and Miller participated in the robbery and implicated Bellamy.

Upon return to Cincinnati, all three recited their parts in the slaying for tape recordings. The Supreme Court said use of the recordings in evidence did not violate their constitutional rights.

Series E, H Savings Units Both Boosted

Old Issues Due To Draw New Revenue Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an increase of four-tenths of 1 per cent in the interest rate on Series E and H savings bonds, and make it effective as of last Dec. 1.

Johnson said the new rate, which will apply both to bonds already outstanding and new issues, will be 4.15 per cent. The present rate is 3.75 per cent.

The President could have raised the rate as high as 4.25 per cent without additional congressional action.

The increase is intended not only to make savings bonds a more attractive investment but by stimulating bond sales — as the administration hopes it will — to help avert inflation.

In announcing the increase, Johnson said the savings bond program strengthens the security of the American family and the economy of the nation, supports the cause of freedom and U.S. fighting men in Viet Nam, and helps preserve the buying powers of our dollars.

The effective date of the increase is Dec. 1, 1965. Bonds purchased since then will earn the new rate, and it will apply as to that date to bonds bought earlier.

On Series E, Bonds the increase will be accomplished, the Treasury Department said, by reducing the maturity date to seven years. Under the 3.75 per cent interest rate, Series E bonds matured in seven years, nine months.

Rhodes For May Stage Write-in

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "My friends say they are going to write in my name if I lose in court," said William L. White of Mount Vernon after asking the Ohio Supreme Court Tuesday to order his name placed on the May 3 Republican ballots for governor.

And White added, he has a lot of friends—pointing out he carried 37 counties in losing the 1964 GOP primary for congressman-at-large. He noted he got 20,000 votes compared to the 60,000 he drew in 1962 as James A. Rhodes' gubernatorial nomination rival, and figured he could draw 325,000 and beat Gov. Rhodes this time.

White, 70, went to court after Secretary of State Ted W. Brown ruled him ineligible for the 1966 primary for lack of valid signatures on his petitions.

Japanese Notes Comfort Family of Slain Marine

ISELIN, N. J. (AP)—Until a few days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Risoldi had few material things to remind them of their 18-year-old Marine son killed in Viet Nam.

There was the large American flag that had draped his coffin, the spent rifle shells given them by the honor guard that fired a volley over his grave, a $25 U.S. defense bond purchased with money the son had sent home just before his death.

Then an article about the parents and the death of their son, Pfc. Vincent Risoldi, appeared in a Japanese newspaper — Yomiuri Shimbun.

Since then, things have not been the same at the Risoldi household.

"We have received over 100 letters from Japanese children, teen-agers and adults telling us how much they sympathize with us and how they have offered prayers for our boy, Chipper," Mrs. Risoldi said.

Most of the letters are beautiful in the simplicity of their wording — youngsters using

"As I am poor in English, I cannot express my thought very well. But I venture to say that I extend my heart-felt sympathy."

Asked if she would permit any of her other sons — Stephen, 15, and Gregory Jr., 11, to enlist in the service when they come of age as their brother had done, Mrs. Risoldi sighed and said:

"If that is what they wanted, yes, I would. You know, of course, we had to sign for Chipper. But I'd do it again, I guess, knowing that it was what he really wanted."

"These letters too have been a great help to us," the mother said. "It gives you a feeling of not being alone in your grief. You know that somebody else cares enough to tell you."

News of World in Brief

CINCINNATI (AP) — Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin Schwartz was convicted today in Traffic Court of making an improper left turn. Judge William Loveland suspended his license for five days and fined him $10 plus costs.

Police said the 62-year-old Schwartz was making a left turn Jan. 3 when the rear of his car was struck by an east-bound auto driven by Floyd Fancett, 43, Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will fly to Atlantic City tonight to speak at the annual session of the American Association of School Administrators.

The White House said he is expected to speak some time between 8 p.m. and 9 p.m., then return to Washington.

Association officials had said previously Johnson would be in Atlantic City to receive the American Education Award given annually by that organization and the Associated Exhibitors.

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP)—Mayor Holm O. Bursum Jr. apparently has pleased most of the people most of the time.

Bursum, four councilmen and a police judge were up for reelection March 1, but no opposition candidates filed. So under state law the incumbents were certified as elected.

It is the first time in 84 years that Socorro did not hold its biennial election.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's output as measured by the Gross National Product reached an even higher level during the final quarter of 1965 than the Commerce Department had anticipated.

Figures released Tuesday put the level for the October-December quarter at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 697 billion — $2.5 billion higher than forecast last month and $15.5 billion above the third-quarter rate.

For the year, the department pegged the GNP at $676 billion — some $47.5 billion or 7.5 per cent higher than a year earlier.

BANGKOK (AP) — Thailand has been approached by Cambodian officials to settle differences between the two traditional enemies, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today.

Thanat declined to elaborate to newsmen on the approach, but informed sources said it was made about two weeks ago and is being studied to determine if it is authentic.

Thailand and Cambodia share a predominantly jungled border stretching from the Gulf of Siam to the Mekong River. They have been historical enemies and have clashed repeatedly along the border, most recently earlier this month.

The two countries broke diplomatic relations in 1961.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, sailed

out of Bridgetown harbor aboard the royal yacht Britannia Tuesday night after a two-day visit. They sailed for St. Lucia on another leg of their Caribbean voyage.

A choir of more than 200 sang hymns just before the Britannia set sail. The queen, in a glittering silver gown and wearing a diamond tiara, came on deck with the prince to listen.

As the yacht pulled away the guests at an earlier dinner party aboard broke into "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Series E, H

crease will be accomplished by raising the amount of the semi-annual dividend sent by the Treasury to the bond holder. Series H bonds are sold at par value and mature at the same value after 10 years, with interest paid meanwhile.

The last increase was in 1959 when the rate was boosted to its present level from 3.52 per cent.

Johnson said a month ago that the rates should be increased because alternative investments made savings bonds less attractive to the public. Most banks pay at least 4 per cent on savings accounts and some savings and loan associations pay close to 5 per cent.

The new interest rate will apply to all the presently outstanding $49 billion in savings bonds as well as to new issues.

This means that persons already holding bonds need not cash them and buy new issues to benefit from the increased interest rate.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler quoted Johnson last month as saying that the prime reason for maintaining savings bond sales is to help meet the cost of the Viet Nam war. The secretary also said at that time that the savings bond program could prove one of the nation's most valuable weapons in averting inflation.

Savings bonds yielded 2.9 per cent interest in 1961. The rate was increased to 3 per cent in 1962 and to 3.52 per cent in 1967.

Series E and H bonds differ appreciably as far as the holder is concerned.

A $25 Series E bond, for example, sells for $18.75 and the holder receives his original purchase price plus any interest at the time he cashes the bond. If held to maturity, the bond is worth $25.

The purchaser pays face value for a Series H bond and the government sends him dividend checks every six months.

Stock Mart Is Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged irregularly lower early this afternoon in active trading.

As the session progressed, utilities and other stocks which are bought by big investors on a yield basis seemed to be adversely affected by news that President Johnson said he is raising the interest rate on U.S. savings bonds to 4.15 per cent from the present 3.75 per cent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .2 at 366.6 with industrials up .6, rails off .6 and utilities off .6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .61 at 982.18, thanks to gains by some of its component blue chips such as General Electric, which advanced about 1 1/2.

Booby-Trap Valentine Hurts Girl

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A 13-year-old girl was wounded seriously by a booby-trapped valentine package today.

Patricia Adams found what appeared to be a valentine present on her doorstep.

Police said that when the girl opened the package, a shotgun blast ripped into her left leg just above the ankle.

Detectives said the booby trap was intended for Patricia's older sister, Nancy, a cheerleader at West End High School.

The sawed-off shotgun was concealed inside an attaché case, the detectives said.

They said that attached to the case was a neatly written Valentine's Day message which read:

"A Valentine to Nancy. On the day of Valentine, better late than never anyway."

"To the nicest girl in West End goes the biggest valentine around."

"Love you, Jimmy."

There was no immediate identification of "Jimmy."

Bill Encourages Industry To Meet Pollution Problems

Congressman William H. Harsha, Ohio 6th District, has proposed legislation to encourage private enterprise to meet the challenge posed by continued pollution of water and air.

Termining clean water and pure air "two of the nation's scarcest resources," Harsha has introduced a bill to give a tax incentive to industrial citizens who construct waste treatment plants.

"Municipal and industrial pollution, the unwanted offspring of civilization growth, is beginning to threaten its own parent," Harsha said. "In recent years, the problem has assumed such grave dimensions and great complexities that it defies governmental control."

"The combined subsidies of Federal, State and local governments have been unable even to maintain the status quo. Even regulatory laws and criminal sanctions have succeeded only partially. Something more needs to be done. The problem is too big for government alone. The private enterprise system must be encouraged to bring its inventive genius to bear," he declared.

Harsha said he will introduce a bill to be called "The Private Enterprise Clean Water and Air Act." He stated that, "Most mills and factories would voluntarily install their own waste treatment plants if the cost were not so great."

The Harsha bill would relieve this cost by authorizing a rapid tax write-off of the capital investment.

Under present law, the industrial taxpayer stretches the write-off period over the estimated life of the facility. Ordinarily, that is a 20-year period. The proposed bill fixes a period of only three years. "The tax savings would be nearly seven times as great," Harsha said.

The Sixth District congressman said this approach would result in some loss of revenue to the government, depending in degree upon the amount of private participation.

"However, since this approach avoids the exorbitant administrative costs of the customary federal aid program, it would be more economical, efficient and effective. Moreover, my bill preserves the rights of the states which have primary jurisdiction over pollution abatement. To be eligible for the federal tax benefit, the industry must conform its plan to State law and obtain a compliance certificate from State authorities," the Ohio solon asserted.

Harsha said that while the tax benefit is granted industry, "the principal beneficiaries of my bill would be the people at large."

Clean water and pure air, basic to the health and welfare of the general public, are what is involved, Harsha concluded.

The bill has been referred by the Speaker of the House to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Motorist Cited by Patrol Fined $175 in Muny Court

Kermit Green, 32, Detroit, Mich., cited by the State Highway Patrol, was fined $175 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court today on two counts.

Green entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of intoxicants and for failure to file for transfer of registration. In addition to the fine, Judge Sterling M. Lamb sentenced him to a three-day stay in the Pickaway County Jail.

U.S. Agrees To Sell Big Portion Of Its Surplus Nickel Stockpile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The great nickel ride on the Washington merry-go-round has completed one full spin. It took 13 years.

The General Services Administration announced last Friday it had signed a contract whereby the Hanna Smelting Co., would purchase 39 million pounds of surplus nickel, now stored in Riddle, Ore.

Further, the announcement said, the Hanna company had an option to buy another 25 million pounds stored at Hammond, Ind.

John Harlan, director of the SA's Defense Materiel Service, confirmed that both stockpiles were originally created by Hanna.

The ore from which the nickel in both stockpiles was processed was mined by the Hanna Coal-Ore Corp., later changed to the Hanna Mining Co.

This processing was undertaken by the Hanna Smelting Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of the Hanna Mining Co. in a $22-million plant built at government expense.

The Hanna Smelting Co., was formed Jan. 15, 1953, and the contract with the government was signed Jan. 16, 1953.

Subsequently, the federal government permitted Hanna Smelting to buy the $22-million plant for $1.7 million.

There were in fact four contracts signed with the government by Hanna firms on Jan. 16, 1953 — one for the delivery of nickel ore at $6 a ton, another for delivery of a minimum of 95 million pounds of processed nickel and a maximum 125 million pounds, a third which made Hanna Mining the government's sales agency and a fourth, which paid the company $100,000 for managing all this.

The processing contract called for delivery of the first 5 million pounds at a cost not to exceed 79.35 cents a pound and 60.5 cents a pound on the remainder.

Harlan said Hanna Smelting delivered the 95 million pounds plus about 17 million more pounds.

The current world price of nickel, incidentally, is 77 cents a pound.

The federal government is now holding 280 million pounds of nickel it doesn't need.

This nickel is only one of 12 metals the government acquired at a cost of $5.1 billion which are now considered surplus to need and which it is now trying to sell.

From 1946 to 1962 the strategic stockpile of materials was classed as a deep secret. President John F. Kennedy removed the secrecy label early in his administration and invited Congress to investigate the whole business.

The end result was a lengthy investigation by a subcommittee of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., in 1963.

The Symington subcommittee heard testimony from W. A. Marting, then president of Hanna, that the cost of mining the ore was $1.67 cents a ton. The price to the government: $6 a ton.

The Symington committee subsequently reported: "Future Hanna profits on the combined mining and smelting operations, financed by the government with all risks assumed by the government, are estimated to be some $86 million."

Four days after the contracts were signed with Hanna the firm's board chairman, George M. Humphrey, became secretary of the Treasury under President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Humphrey subsequently told the Senate committee in disputing the charges of excess profit:

"Our whole being involved $27 million of sales on which we made a net profit of $7.5 million in seven years. If that is unconscionable profit I would like to know what it is."

Whatever the merit of the charge and countercharge, Harlan said the government hoped to show a profit on its current deal with Hanna.

The deposit box, designed as a convenience to motorists, currently is located on Court St. in front of the Post Office. However, Postmaster Walters and city officials have received numerous complaints concerning this site.

Most of the complaints have been based on difficult access to the box due to parked cars, its nearness to a crosswalk and the temptation to drive on the wrong side of the street to use the facility.

Others have urged a box be placed in an area that would be on the driver's side of vehicles.

Walter's recommendation will be considered by the Safety Committee and safety director.

Service Director Harlow Arledge informed the lawmakers that snow removal earlier this month cost the city $4,132.95. The amount included expenses for hiring private equipment and operators and extra labor.

A petition requesting a section of Fairview Ave. extending from Avon Drive to Park Drive be renamed Maumee Drive was accepted and placed on file. The proposal was signed by property owners affected.

Armed Services Committee, asked for speedy action. He said it is "vital that this bill clear the Congress by the latter part of this month."

Russell said in an interview he will oppose any effort to attach to the measure any policy rider. Critics of Johnson's policies have been talking about offering language which would admonish the President against expanding the Viet Nam war.

Russell predicted overwhelming approval of the bill when a vote is reached.

"We have around 300,000 Americans in Viet Nam, or in the waters adjacent to it," he said. "They did not order themselves there."

"Without regard to a divergence of views, practically every senator feels we should support with equipment, food, medical services and other necessities those who are fighting under our flag in that tortured land."

Nevertheless, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., spokesman for a group which protested the resumption of air strikes against North Viet Nam targets, said critical issues are involved and "this legislation should not be hurried through."

He said the administration should not ask for a vote "until it has made its case" before the Foreign Relations group.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, sailed

out of Bridgetown harbor aboard the royal yacht Britannia Tuesday night after a two-day visit. They sailed for St. Lucia on another leg of their Caribbean voyage.

A choir of more than 200 sang hymns just before the Britannia set sail. The queen, in a glittering silver gown and wearing a diamond tiara, came on deck with the prince to listen.

As the yacht pulled away the guests at an earlier dinner party aboard broke into "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" and "Auld Lang Syne."

crease will be accomplished by raising the amount of the semi-annual dividend sent by the Treasury to the bond holder. Series H bonds are sold at par value and mature at the same value after 10 years, with interest paid meanwhile.

The last increase was in 1959 when the rate was boosted to its present level from 3.52 per cent.

Johnson said a month ago that the rates should be increased because alternative investments made savings bonds less attractive to the public. Most banks pay at least 4 per cent on savings accounts and some savings and loan associations pay close to 5 per cent.

The new interest rate will apply to all the presently outstanding $49 billion in savings bonds as well as to new issues.

This means that persons already holding bonds need not cash them and buy new issues to benefit from the increased interest rate.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler quoted Johnson last month as saying that the prime reason for maintaining savings bond sales is to help meet the cost of the Viet Nam war. The secretary also said at that time that the savings bond program could prove one of the nation's most valuable weapons in averting inflation.

Savings bonds yielded 2.9 per cent interest in 1941. The rate was increased to 3 per cent in 1952 and to 3.52 per cent in 1957.

Series E and H bonds differ appreciably as far as the holder is concerned. A $25 Series E bond, for example, sells for $18.75 and the holder receives his original purchase price plus any interest at the time he cashes the bond. If held to maturity, the bond is worth $25.

The purchaser pays face value for a Series H bond and the government sends him dividend checks every six months.

Stock Mart Is Irregular

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged irregularly lower early this afternoon in active trading.

As the session progressed, utilities and other stocks which are bought by big investors on a yield basis seemed to be adversely affected by news that President Johnson said he is raising the interest rate on U.S. savings bonds to 4.15 per cent from the present 3.75 per cent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .2 at 366.6 with industrials up .8, rails off .6 and utilities off .6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .61 at 982.18, thanks to gains by some of its component blue chips such as General Electric, which advanced about 1 1/2.

Booby-Trap Valentine Hurts Girl

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A 13-year-old girl was wounded seriously by a booby-trapped valentine package today.

Patricia Adams found what appeared to be a valentine present on her doorstep.

Police said that when the girl opened the package, a shotgun blast ripped into her left leg just above the ankle.

Detectives said the booby trap was intended for Patricia's older sister, Nancy, a cheerleader at West End High School.

The sawed-off shotgun was concealed inside an attaché case, the detectives said.

They said that attached to the case was a neatly written Valentine's Day message which read:

"A Valentine to Nancy.

"On the day of Valentine. Better late than never anyway.

"To the nicest girl in West End goes the biggest valentine around.

"Love you, Jimmy."

There was no immediate identification of "Jimmy."

Bill Encourages Industry To Meet Pollution Problems

Congressman William H. Harsha, Ohio 6th District, has proposed legislation to encourage private enterprise to meet the challenge posed by continued pollution of water and air.

Termining clean water and pure air "two of the nation's scarcest resources," Harsha has introduced a bill to give a tax incentive to industrial citizens who construct waste treatment plants.

"Municipal and industrial pollution, the unwanted offspring of civilization growth, is beginning to threaten its own parent," Harsha said. "In recent years, the problem has assumed such grave dimensions and great complexities that it defies governmental control.

"The combined subsidies of Federal, State and local governments have been unable even to maintain the status quo. Even regulatory laws and criminal sanctions have succeeded only partially. Something more needs to be done. The problem is too big for government alone. The private enterprise system must be encouraged to bring its inventive genius to bear," he declared.

Harsha said he will introduce a bill to be called "The Private Enterprise Clean Water and Air Act." He stated that, "Most mills and factories would voluntarily install their own waste treatment plants if the cost were not so great.

The Harsha bill would relieve this cost by authorizing a rapid tax write-off of the capital investment.

Under present law, the industrial taxpayer stretches the write-off period over the estimated life of the facility. Ordinarily, that is a 20-year period. The proposed bill fixes a period of only three years. "The tax savings would be nearly seven times as great," Harsha said.

The Sixth District congressman said this approach would result in some loss of revenue to the government, depending in degree upon the amount of private participation. "However, since this approach avoids the exorbitant administrative costs of the customary federal aid program, it would be more economical, efficient and effective. Moreover, my bill preserves the rights of the states which have primary jurisdiction over pollution abatement. To be eligible for the federal tax benefit, the industry must conform its plan to State law and obtain a compliance certificate from State authorities," the Ohio solon asserted.

Harsha said that while the tax benefit is granted industry, "the principal beneficiaries of my bill would be the people at large."

Clean water and pure air, basic to the health and welfare of the general public, are what is involved, Harsha concluded. The bill has been referred by the Speaker of the House to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Motorist Cited by Patrol Fined $175 in Muny Court

Kermit Green, 32, Detroit, Mich., cited by the State Highway Patrol, was fined $175 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court today on two counts.

Green entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of intoxicants and for failure to file for transfer of registration. In addition to the fine, Judge Sterling M. Lamb sentenced him to a three-day stay in the Pickaway County Jail.

Ray Harper, 28, Westerville, was fined $15 and costs for speeding 35 miles per hour in a 20 mile zone and $10 and costs for failure to transfer registration.

Mitchell Bennett, 44, Columbus, was fined $75 and costs for driving when he had no valid operator's license.

William H. Fillinger, 29, Lockbourne; $15 and costs for driving left of center.

William Johnson, 19, Sciotoville; $15 and costs for driving a car with no rear lights.

Carl Dunn, 24, Chillicothe; $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

David Hanson, 29, Waverly; $50 and costs for driving a car with fictitious registration.

Solons . . .

with Council concerning a renewed effort to establish a building code here. An ordinance calling for a code and sponsored by the Contractor Assn., was turned down by the solons last October.

KENWORTHY said his organization had hopes of meeting with Council in an effort to solve differences that cropped up in the original code proposal. However, he said he was not aware the city had intentions of making a building code a part of the development study.

The discussion agenda included comments by Postmaster Charles Walters recommending that his department's outside drop-in box be placed back on Mount St. where it was located before.

The deposit box, designed as a convenience to motorists, currently is located on Court St. in front of the Post Office. However, Postmaster Walters and city officials have received numerous complaints concerning this site.

Most of the complaints have been based on difficult access to the box due to parked cars, its nearness to a crosswalk and the temptation to drive on the wrong side of the street to use the facility. Others have urged a box be placed in an area that would be on the driver's side of vehicles.

Walter's recommendation will be considered by the Safety Committee and safety director.

Service Director Harlow Arledge informed the lawmakers that snow removal earlier this month cost the city $4,132.95. The amount included expenses for hiring private equipment and operators and extra labor.

A petition requesting a section of Fairview Ave. extending from Avon Drive to Park Drive be renamed Maumee Drive was accepted and placed on file. The proposal was signed by property owners affected.

Hand Is Burned By Boiling Water

Betty Ann Fee, 29, Route 2, received emergency care in Berger Hospital yesterday after she was burned on the left hand by boiling water. Five persons were treated and released.

Carl Lynn, 25, Route 1, Ashville, an employee of the General Electric Lamp Plant, caught his left hand in machinery.

John Jones, 14, Route 1, Laurelville, sprained his right ankle while playing volleyball at school.

Frank Carpenter, 39, Route 1, Ashville, while working at the Du Pont Plant lacerated his right arm.

Carl E. Orin, 18, of 1258 Norfolk Ave., injured his right ankle at school.

U.S. Agrees To Sell Big Portion Of Its Surplus Nickel Stockpile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The great nickel ride on the Washington merry-go-round has completed one full spin. It took 13 years.

The General Services Administration announced last Friday it had signed a contract whereby the Hanna Smelting Co., would purchase 39 million pounds of surplus nickel, now stored in Riddle, Ore.

Further, the announcement said, the Hanna company had an option to buy another 25 million pounds stored at Hammond, Ind.

John Harlan, director of the SA's Defense Materiel Service, confirmed that both stockpiles were originally created by Hanna.

The ore from which the nickel in both stockpiles was processed was mined by the Hanna Coal-Ore Corp., later changed to the Hanna Mining Co.

This processing was undertaken by the Hanna Smelting Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of the Hanna Mining Co. in a $22-million plant built at government expense.

The Hanna Smelting Co. was formed Jan. 15, 1953, and the contract with the government was signed Jan. 16, 1953.

Subsequently, the federal government permitted Hanna Smelting to buy the $22-million plant for $1.7 million.

There were in fact four contracts signed with the government by Hanna firms on Jan. 16, 1953 — one for the delivery of nickel ore at $6 a ton, another for delivery of a minimum of 95 million pounds of processed nickel and a maximum 125 million pounds, a third which made Hanna Mining the government's sales agency and a fourth, which paid the company $100,000 for managing all this.

The processing contract called for delivery of the first 5 million pounds at a cost not to exceed 79.35 cents a pound and 60.5 cents a pound on the remainder.

Harlan said Hanna Smelting delivered the 95 million pounds plus about 17 million more pounds.

The current world price of nickel, incidentally, is 77 cents a pound.

The federal government is now holding 280 million pounds of nickel it doesn't need.

This nickel is only one of 12 metals the government acquired at a cost of $5.1 billion which are now considered surplus to need and which it is now trying to sell.

From 1946 to 1962 the strategic stockpile of materials was classed as a deep secret. President John F. Kennedy removed the secrecy label early in his administration and invited Congress to investigate the whole business.

The end result was a lengthy investigation by a subcommittee of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., in 1963.

The Symington subcommittee heard testimony from W. A. Marting, then president of Hanna, that the cost of mining the ore was $1.67 cents a ton. The price to the government: $6 a ton.

The Symington committee subsequently reported:

"Future Hanna profits on the combined mining and smelting operations, financed by the government with all risks assumed by the government, are estimated to be some $86 million."

Four days after the contracts were signed with Hanna the firm's board chairman, George M. Humphrey, became secretary of the Treasury under President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Humphrey subsequently told the Senate committee in disputing the charges of excess profit:

"Our whole being involved $27 million of sales on which we made a net profit of $7.5 million in seven years. If that is unconscionable profit I would like to know what it is."

Whatever the merit of the charge and countercharge, Harlan said the government hoped to show a profit on its current deal with Hanna.

REMOVING HAIR BY WAX

Q. I have been told that unwanted hair removed by wax will not grow back. Is this true?

A. No. Essentially the method consists of applying wax to the hairy area. When the wax cools the hardened sheet is lifted off, ripping the hairs out by the roots. The procedure is slightly painful and rather disagreeable. Depending on the person's rate of hair growth, and on the location, hair reappears within three to five weeks and the procedure must be repeated.

ASTHMA CURES

Q. Can asthma be cured?
A. The basic principles of cure are known but real cures are hard to come by. Asthma is due to inflammation of the breathing tubes, which tend to contract and become covered with a thick coating of mucus. Currently available drugs only reduce the symptoms of asthma; they cure nothing. Cure of asthma depends on finding the cause of the irritation and removing it, correcting complications that may have developed, and cooperating with nature in her efforts to heal the irritated tissue of the breathing system. It is only when the cause of the inflammation is removed that healing will occur.

The personal interest we take in the health of those we serve is of equal importance with the professional skill we put in the dispensing of prescribed medicine.

On Keeping Warm

When conditions on the weather front are the reverse of those of the moment, and hot weather is the chief tormentor and main topic of conversation, authoritative advice on how to keep cool can usually be expected. But why does no one ever inform the populace on how to survive cold waves?

Hot weather advisers leave the individual more or less on his own in cold spells, so he can only draw up his own recipe for keeping warm. Logic would seem to be on the side of doing in cold weather those things he is advised against in heat waves: Don't worry. Practice moderation. Take frequent baths. Wear loose clothing. Avoid drinks that are too cold; drink water and fruit juices. Stay away from alcoholic beverages. Eat salads. And above all, take it easy.

Reversing this advice, a winter-time survival technique might be mapped along these lines:

Catch up on worrying; it generates heat. Because moderation is a coolant, avoid it as much as possible — operate full steam ahead. Don't take baths. Avoid drinks that are too hot; don't drink water and fruit juices. Eat meat and potatoes, plus vegetables. Finally, don't take it easy — work up a sweat.

Some of this advice looks good and some not too good. But if this advice doesn't quite do the job, there's one sure method that can be followed to keep the heat on: Start arguing about taxes.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Prosperity and war are teaming up to throw roadblocks in the uphill struggle to balance U.S. financial transactions with the rest of the world.

War in Southeast Asia is draining some dollars and is likely to draw still more overseas when the administration would like to keep as many Yankee dollars at home as it can.

Prosperity is causing U.S. imports to rise much faster than exports. We have more money, want more foreign goods, need more raw materials from abroad to satisfy consumer demands at home.

Boom times also are putting a strain on the administration's guidelines on wages and prices. And holding down the price of American products is important for two reasons: 1. It keeps them within the ability of less affluent nations to buy. 2. It helps keep American goods competitive with those produced in other industrialized lands where production costs, though rising, are still lower than here.

The United States made good strides in 1965 in cutting the balance of payments deficit that has plagued it since 1957. The net drain of dollars overseas was cut to $1.3 billion, from $2.8 billion in 1964. The biggest loss had been $3.9 billion in 1960 and this has inspired the drive to balance the payments and try to halt the outflow of gold.

The administration has been hoping that 1966 will see the deficit either abolished or cut to as low as $250 million. Now it is taking a second look at its earlier forecasts.

Last year American military activity in all overseas areas cost $1.6 billion. Officials say that this year this may rise to $2.1 billion.

The loss would have to be made up elsewhere.

But the figures on foreign trade are less reassuring now than some time back. U.S. exports rose by 4 per cent in 1965 over 1964. But imports were climbing by more than 15 per cent. At $26.3 billion exports did not offset imports of $21.5 billion by $4.8 billion to help offset dollar losses in other directions, such as foreign aid, military activities, and tourist spending.

The thing that gives pause, however, is that in 1964 exports had topped imports by $6.7 billion. If imports continue to rise at the much faster pace than do exports, the favorable trade gap of the United States could dwindle, and make the dollar losses from other sources hard to hold in line.

While rising imports and increasing military spending overseas are dampening the earlier hopes that the U.S. deficit could be eliminated this year, Washington has been getting good help from U.S. corporations and banks in the voluntary trimming of overseas investments and loans.

The administration is tightening up these voluntary controls, although expressing satisfaction with last year's results. Officials say direct corporate investment abroad was held below $3.4 billion, representing a sharp turnaround at midyear from the first half annual rate of $4.1 billion. Banks increased foreign loans and investments in 1965 by only $155 million, compared to a gain of $2.4 billion in 1964.

If tighter voluntary controls cut these investments and loans still more this year — if tourists spend more at home and less abroad — if Viet Nam war spending doesn't go higher than now projected — if U.S. exports somehow can be made to expand faster than imports — then, with all those "ifs" the 1966 balance of payments story may have a happy ending.

Food is all he can think about or talk about. Instead of greeting you with "What's new?" he asks: "What did you have for breakfast this morning?" They say misery loves company and many think dieters should be isolated from the rest of humanity during their ordeal — perhaps to a lonely mountain top or a desert.

But since at any given time

Anyone on Diet Is a Nuisance

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — What is worse than falling in love? Going on a diet.

A person in love is usually only a nuisance to himself — or perhaps to one other person, his beloved. But anyone on a diet is a nuisance to nearly everyone.

That's why all the world may love a lover, but no one in history has ever been stirred to build a monument to a diet.

Food is all he can think about or talk about. Instead of greeting you with "What's new?" he asks: "What did you have for breakfast this morning?" They say misery loves company and many think dieters should be isolated from the rest of humanity during their ordeal — perhaps to a lonely mountain top or a desert.

But since at any given time about a fourth of all Americans over 30 are dieting, or pretending to be, this idea is impractical. It might be simpler to exile the noodlers. In our present abundant, affluent society it would appear that they are the ones who are abnormal.

In any case, lumping the dieters together is no answer.

For example, I have been nearly seven weeks on the annual diet I start at the beginning of each year. It wrecks my day to meet another dieter for he is sure to inquire how much I lost last week.

"Six and one-eighth ounces," I reply.

"Well, I lost 3½ pounds," he chortles. "You want to know how I did it?"

"No."

"Well, I did it by having nothing but pomegranate juice and raw sauerkraut. Why don't you try it?"

Each guy has a different success story, an easy remedy. One melts his avoirdupois off by eating nothing but radishes and fried squash. Another does it with goat cheese and broiled duck eggs. Still another thins down with a mixture of mineral oil and mashed mangoes.

There is a scientific theory that eating food high in calories is what tends to make you chubby. But this is only partly true.

As a veteran of scores of diets, I think there are only two general rules that are really helpful in trying to slim down:

1. Never eat at all when hungry.

2. When not hungry, eat only foods you genuinely despise.

If this program doesn't work, you might as well relax and enjoy your fat.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE FARMER'S ALMANAC for 1966, filled as usual with fascinating bits of folk-lore and predictions, contains one anecdote about a New Hampshire fisherman in the late 1850's who was angling for eels, and pulling them in at a merry clip via two alder poles and lines. Suddenly he noticed a stranger on a bridge downstream watching him intently, and impulsively asked if he'd like to borrow one of his poles. The stranger accepted, and the two men fished silently but successfully together for well on to three hours.

That evening the New Hampshire angler attended a political meeting in the town hall, and was surprised to discover that the featured speaker was his fellow fisherman, and the name by which he was introduced was Abraham Lincoln.

Once I loaned a fishing pole to a complete stranger, too—and do you know who he turned out to be? Mr. Irving Shnickelfoos, who owns a delicatessen shop in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Apocryphal story from the new U.S. Senate Building in Washington: A constituent in the Northwest suggested that the Cascade Mountain Range be levelled off. His senator replied, "Your project is daring, imaginative, and will drive all those landmark enthusiasts out of their minds—but I'm afraid it just isn't costly enough to be practical."

At a family bowling alley. Novice wife to her would-be helpful spouse: "If I do anything wrong and you can show me how to do it better—keep your big mouth shut!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What is the difference between Bright's disease and Nephritis? What is pyelonephritis?

Bright's disease is technically different from Nephritis. Yet they are sometimes used interchangeably to describe infections and other disorders of the kidneys.

Bright's disease, named after a nineteenth century English physician, is really a degenerative process of the kidney. There are three distinct and different types of Bright's disease, all affecting the proper functioning of the kidneys. In this condition, albumin, or protein, is found in the urine. There is also a tendency to accumulate fluid in the body (dropsy).

Nephritis is an inflammation or infection of the kidney, caused by bacteria. Pyelonephritis is an infection of two of the major portions of the kidney.

There are varying degrees of severity of all of these conditions. Kidney function tests, X-rays with special dyes, microscopic examination of the urine, cultures and blood chemistry studies can now pinpoint the exact cause of kidney diseases... and suggest the most effective treatment.

What is the normal level of cholesterol in the blood? Numbers themselves are somewhat confusing. Besides the cholesterol "number", there are many other factors that determine health or illness.

The normal amount of cholesterol in the blood ranges between 150 to 250 milligrams in 100 c.c. of blood. High cholesterol can be reduced by a rigid, prescribed diet.

Why must the blood be examined every few days in a person who is taking a blood thinning medicine?

'Equal Protection'

By John Chamberlain

The "equal protection" clause of the Constitution is an honorable one, and the ancient theory that the privileges and immunities of the citizens shall be equal is the very cornerstone of Anglo-Saxon — or, indeed, any other — justice. But, as of this moment of writing, there has been no indictment of Yale Professor Staughton Lynd, Communist theoretician Herbert Aptheker, and "New Leftist" Thomas Hayden for having traveled illegally to the "out-of-bounds" Communist nation of North Vietnam. They have had their passports lifted, and that is all.

I am not trying to be mean in raising the point about indictment, for the utility, if not the justice, of prohibiting travel to some of the world's trouble spots can certainly be questioned. But the truth is that the penalties for breaking the travel ban regulations seem to be applied in discriminatory ways. Some people get slapped at once; some get it worse than others; some are indulged for months before there is any movement to punish them.

Back in 1963 a young man named Philip Abbott Luce took a group of "students" to Castro's Cuba. A year later he helped organize a second trip to Fidel's out-of-bounds Communist paradise. For doing this he not only had his passport revoked; he was also placed under Federal indictment for his law breaking. Stefan Martinot, Levi Laub and Anatole Schlosser were his co-defendants. At present Martinot, Laub, and Schlosser are waiting for a Brooklyn judge to reach a decision in the case. Luce himself, having disowned his previous ties with the Progressive Labor Movement, the dissident Communist group which was implicated in organizing the Cuban trip of fifty-nine students is apparently receiving special treatment for helping the government in obtaining information about the doings of the "Maoists" Left.

Well, if Luce, Martinot, Laub, and Schlosser were deemed subject to indictment for going to Cuba, or for helping to organize trips for others, how can a government that is founded on the idea that the privileges and immunities of the citizens shall be equal fail to indict Staughton Lynd, Herbert Aptheker, and Thomas Hayden for doing precisely what Luce, Martinot, and Laub did? Fair is fair.

Again, even in the matter of passport revocation, the law seems to be applied at an uneven tempo. The students who went to Cuba in 1963 and 1964 lost their passports quickly. Lynd kept his long enough to take a little trip to London after his return to Yale University from Hanoi. When Lynd did have his passport canceled, the State Department finally got around to withdrawing the passports of four youths who journeyed to Hanoi from a youth festival in Finland last August. This latter punishment was meted out only after a five month lag.

The American Civil Liberties Union, which is currently meditating on taking the Lynd passport case to court, obviously thinks it might be considered unconstitutional to forbid travel to countries against whom we have not officially declared war. This columnist thoroughly deplores Staughton Lynd's attitude about the Vietnamese War (to me, it is a completely just war, for it is being undertaken in defense of a weak nation that has been shamefully and immorally attacked by an organized conspiracy of totalitarian imperialists.)

But the fact that Staughton Lynd is blind to facts does not mean that it is a good thing for the U. S. government to forbid travel. The passport regulations prohibiting trips to places like Cuba, Red China, and North Vietnam mean that the American people are forced to get their news about proscribed countries from law breakers like Lynd, or from Englishmen like Felix Greene. This Greene, it will be remembered, thinks Mao Tse-tung is just wonderful because he eradicated "corruption" through the simple expedient of killing some twenty-five million people who might have been crooks if they had been allowed to live.

The passport laws are bad. But as long as they are on the books, they should be applied without favoritism.

British Stage Censorship Is Seen In for Shakeup

LONDON AP — Stage censorship, long under fire in Britain, may be in for a shakeup. British playwrights who feel their work sometimes has suffered at the censor's hands hope a more liberal approach may be tried.

The censor himself, Lord Cobbold, the lord chamberlain, is in favor of changing the system.

But the lord chamberlain, who licenses all stage plays in Britain, carries out the duties by act of Parliament. Until Parliament decides otherwise, he is bound by a directive of 1909.

Lord Annan has requested debate in the House of Lords drawing attention to the problems of censorship. This is to be held Thursday. A proposal has been tacked on his request suggesting that a joint committee of peers and members of Parliament be set up to review stage censorship.

Three archbishops are to ask the lord chamberlain to lift his ban on the portrayal of Christ on the British stage. The request comes from Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury and spiritual head of the Anglican Church; Dr. F. Donald Coggan, Archbishop of York; and John Cardinal Heenan, Archbishop of Westminster and head of the Roman Catholic Church in Britain.

They feel the ban gives the impression that belief in Christ is a fable in need of artificial protection.

The archbishops' request is to be put by a deputation on Feb. 24. Backing the deputation are playwrights Arnold Wesker and Robert Bolt, and actresses Dame Flora Robson and Dame Sybil Thorndyke.

The deputation follows a ban on a pop-music play, "A Man Dies," which could not get a license for stage production although it already has been seen by millions of television viewers.

The play, in which Christ dances to beat music, first was staged six years ago by St. James's Church Youth Club, Bristol, for a members-only audience.

All theatrical scripts have to be submitted to the lord chamberlain's office to be licensed for public performance.

Unions To Protest To Trading With North Viets

NEW YORK (AP)—Three major maritime unions say they will launch demonstrations "very soon" against the ships of all nations trading with North Viet Nam.

The leaders of the three unions made the vow in a telegram to President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Commerce John Connor and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

"American seamen and longshoremen are determined to take action to discourage the flow of supplies which strengthen North Viet Nam and their puppets, the Viet Cong," the telegram said.

The telegram was signed by Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association; Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, and Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union.

Second Domer Trial To Start Monday

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The second murder trial of Robert K. Domer, former Canton mortgage investment broker, is scheduled to start Monday before a three-judge panel in common pleas court here.

Domer, 46, was convicted by a similar panel in 1963 and sentenced to die in the electric chair, but won an appeal on grounds that the prosecution took statements from him while he had no legal counsel. He is charged with the slaying of Howard F. Riddle, 54, an Akron fruit peddler.

Dr. Sam To Attend Hearing in Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard has permission from the 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals to go to Washington for the Supreme Court hearing of his appeal on a murder conviction.

The court Tuesday granted the request. The Supreme Court appeal is scheduled to be heard Feb. 24.

Sheppard is appealing the slaying of his first wife, Marilyn. He served nearly 10 years in prison before a federal judge ordered him released in 1964, saying his civil rights were violated. The circuit court here reversed that decision and ordered him back to prison.

'Medicare Alert' Slated To Reach Ohio's Elderly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal government's latest move to get the "medicare" message over to elderly Ohioans is a $370,000 antipoverty grant intended to help potential beneficiaries beat an important March 31 deadline.

The grant was approved by the government last week to finance "Medicare Alert" programs by 24 local Community Action Committees in Ohio, local agencies of the federal anti-poverty program.

The Ohio Office of Opportunity says only four established Community Action Committees didn't apply for and get "Medicare Alert" money. Committees not yet funded were not eligible. The four established committees that won't participate in "Medicare Alert" are the Clark, Jefferson, Columbiana and Trumbull county groups.

The Social Security Administration felt that such a great percentage of eligible persons in these counties had signed up for the health care program that "Medicare Alert" drives were't necessary, said a spokesman of the Ohio Office of Opportunity.

"Medicare Alert" workers, many of them recruited from among the state's elderly, will be paid to go door to door with this message: "Sign up before March 31 or you may have to pay medical bills you could have avoided."

Benefits under "medicare" begin July 1, but full benefits will go only to those who sign up for the voluntary program covering doctor's bill and other medical services. This part of the program is voluntary and beneficiaries must pay $3 a month for coverage.

Persons covered by Social Security will automatically be enrolled in the hospitalization part of the program. Those not covered by Social Security are required to sign up for both programs if they want full benefits.

Those who fail to sign up for the voluntary part of "medicare" will have to wait until October 1967 to apply for the coverage.

"Medicare Alert" will also tell those approaching 65 that they must sign up for the program in a seven-month period beginning three months before their 65th birthday and ending four months after.

CCCW Plans To Sponsor Special Prayer Service

Circleville Council of Church Women met Monday in the Second Baptist Church, 130 W. Mill St., with Mrs. David Whaley, chairman, presiding.

The group is sponsoring the World Day of Prayer service 2 p. m. Feb. 25 in the Church of the Brethren. On this day all over the world groups of Christians will gather to pray. The service this year was prepared by the women of Scotland and reflects the long traditions of the Scottish churches. The theme is, "You are My Witness." Everyone is invited to participate.

Mrs. M. D. Lorentz reported that the Clothing Center in the Veterans apartment building, W. High St. will be open for receiving and sorting clothing Mar. 1, and for distribution on Mar. 2 from 1 to 3 p. m. each day. Anyone with articles of wearing apparel for any age person or household items, other than large pieces of furniture, may bring them to the room or call Mrs. Lorentz, GR 4-9064.

She also reported that the County Commissioners provided the lumber and Talmer Wise donated his labor to build more shelves and a large table. The Lutheran Church donated another clothing rack making it possible to sort and display the materials in a better manner.

The Brooks-Yates School for Retarded Children thanked the ladies of the Church of the Brethren for the luncheon they prepared and served to the children recently. Any group interested in doing this service should call GR 4-2623 or GR 4-3952.

CCCW also sponsors the collection of cancelled postage stamps. They are sent to a place which redeems them by sending CARE packages. It is estimated that about 20 tons of food were sent last year from such stamps. Only commemorative stamps or any other than the ordinary are acceptable. They should be cut off the envelope or card with a margin around the stamp.

A film strip belonging to Mrs. Charles J. Green, a representative from St. Joseph's Catholic Church, was shown. Entitled, "Foundation for Dialogue," the film is a result of over a year's work done by Mrs. Greene's cousin, Sister M. Suzanne, O. P. She reported and filmed services and church activities in various churches and personally interviewed about 40 theologians of various groups in the Madison, Wis., area where the film was produced. Any group may obtain it by contacting Mrs. Green, GR 4-3941.

The next meeting will be held Mar. 14 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

WSCS Holds All-Day Meet

Five Points Methodist WSCS met at the church recently for an all day session. Plans were made for the bazaar which will be held in connection with the annual ham and chicken supper Mar. 26.

A carry in dinner was held at noon. In the afternoon a short business session was held with Mrs. Herman Porter, president, presiding.

Roll call was answered by 15 members. Mrs. Arthur Winfough gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Francis Furness, treasurer, gave the financial report. The afternoon was spent sewing aprons for the bazaar.

The March meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Turner Sheets, Mar. 2. Mrs. E. L. Sheets and Mrs. Herman Porter will be hostesses.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Obese Child Needs Help

DEAR ABBY: Our son is our problem. He has always been a good boy and a bright boy, but he is an introvert. He has no friends and claims he doesn't want any. He is sarcastic and arrogant, shows no affection and asks for none. He could be handsome, but over the years he has gained so much weight it pains me to look at him. Yet he pretends he doesn't care, and he continues to eat everything and anything while he grows fatter. We have begged him and bribed him, but nothing has worked. Where do we go from here?

close enough to him to discover his human imperfections. (We all have them.) Only a psychotherapist can unearth his problems. Why wait?

DEAR ABBY: I am 25, have been married six years and have two children. I really love my husband, Abby, but my problem is that I'm terribly attracted to a married policeman in town. Every time our eyes meet it's like a magnet is drawing us together. It's never gone further than that, but I'm afraid it might. I keep telling myself I will avoid him, but I just have to see him again. This has been going on for a year and it hasn't helped my marriage any. Should I ask him please to ignore me because I haven't the will power to ignore him?

DEAR WEAK: NO! If you are ever going to demagnetize yourself, you'll have to do it with no help from him. Go out of your way to stay out of his sight. Continue this treatment for about 20 years and I'll guarantee you a complete cure.

DEAR ABBY: I do a lot of babysitting in the neighborhood. Sometimes, when there is nothing good on television, I get bored so I look for something to do. Twice I have found family albums on the shelves, so I have looked through them. It's fun to see pictures of the families taken many years ago right up to the present time. My mother thinks I shouldn't look at these albums unless I ask permission, or unless they are lying on the table for guests to look at. I don't see any harm in it. What is your opinion?

DEAR LIKES: I agree with your mother.

DEAR ABBY: While his wife was suffering from an incurable disease, he became my lover. We spoke of having a life together after the inevitable happened. But when it finally did he said with a straight face that he was going to marry a co-worker in whom he had been interested for some years because she made a large salary, and they could look forward to TWO company pensions. I thought my life was over.

For months I walked around in a daze and cried myself to sleep every night. I am slowly coming out of it, but I feel 200 years old and look every day of it. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest, Abby. I had to tell somebody.

BITTER LESSON

Practical Nurses Assn. Slates Meet

The Practical Nurses Assn. will meet 7:30 p. m. Friday in the home of Mrs. Frances Evans, 444 E. Main St. Mrs. Frances Held will be co-hostess.

8th Birthday Observed With Party

Teresa Dountz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dountz, 379 E. Franklin St., was honored on her eighth birthday with a party given by her mother. Mary Ann Willoughby, aunt of the honored guest, assisted.

Games were played and refreshments served. Each guest received a miniature basket filled with candy and balloons as favors.

Those present were, Penny Reed, Tammy Bensonhaver, Micky Brungs, Toni Hill, Karen Jones, Patsy McCain, Joyce and Tammy Hoffman, Becky and Terry Dountz.

Gifts were also received from Bertha and Regina Morris and Donnie and Susan Dountz.

Wife Preservers

Tie a knot in clothes that are stained before you put them in the hamper. You'll remember to pre-treat them come laundry day.

Stuffed celery makes a delicious hors d'oeuvre for a company supper. You may use cream cheese, flaked canned crabmeat and a little mayonnaise for the celery stuffing. Sprinkle the stuffed celery with paprika for a rosy garnish.

Slice radishes thin and marinate along with cucumber slices in French dressing. Serve as a relish with hamburgers for something different.

Sanctions in Rhodesia Pinch Africans First

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—"These sanctions are terrible, boss," the African taxi driver said.

He was driving into Salisbury from the airport. Red flowering flamboyant trees and the pale, pastel blossoms of frangipani tree slid past the window. In the distance was the skyline of Salisbury, glistening in the warm sun.

"I have six kids, boss," the taxi driver went on. "Four boys and two girls. If they go to school they all have to have school uniforms and money for fees. I want them to go to school."

The African wasn't whining or complaining. To him the prob-

Holland Set For Marriage Of Princess

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP)—Crown Princess Beatrix and German-born Claus von Amsberg go to a small rural town hall Thursday to start the preliminaries for their royal wedding.

There will follow a round of festivities, state receptions and dinners until their marriage March 10 with royal pomp in Amsterdam, a hotbed of opposition to their union.

The banns will be published Thursday. Then the crown princess, 28, and the former diplomat, 39, will give notice of their intention to marry before Mayor F.J. Van Beek Calkoen in the Town Hall of Baarn. The royal Soestdyk Palace is located in Baarn.

In a simple ceremony lasting no more than 10 minutes, they will sign the registers. This will be followed by festivities in the Hague, the seat of government.

The wedding ceremony will be two-fold. First there will be a ceremony before Amsterdam's Mayor Gijs Van Hall in City Hall. Then a Protestant Dutch Reformed Church ceremony will be held in Westerkerk.

About 2,000 guests, including three reigning European couples, are to attend.

lem of Rhodesia's independence was stripped of constitutional significance and all questions of racial equality or "one man one vote."

The oil embargo and gasoline rationing had come along suddenly and endangered what is a respectable job for an African. He is working only three days a week now instead of six.

His reaction was: "What is this Mr. Wilson trying to do to us?"

He was talking about Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain, who has cut off trade with Rhodesia.

"I come home from work. We eat and the kids say they are still hungry," the driver continued.

The African said he had stopped eating during the day so there would be more food for all in the evening. His six children still complained.

The taxi driver was confirming what almost everybody has seen from the beginning of Britain's economic war against her rebellious colony. The first to suffer is the African.

Unemployment figures are not published now, but Africans are losing their jobs as industries slow down and business houses retrench. There are more signs saying "Hapana basa"—no work.

Apart from the gasoline rationing, the 225,000 Europeans in Rhodesia have scarcely been touched by sanctions so far. A shortage of cereal breakfast foods has developed, and imported cookies are disappearing from grocery shelves.

Imported canned goods probably will be disappearing soon, but Rhodesia produces most of its basic foodstuffs, including

Controversial Yale Prof To Write Book

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Staughton Lynd, the Yale assistant history professor whose passport was revoked because he made a recent unauthorized trip to Hanoi, has been granted a year's leave of absence to write a book.

Lynd said the book will be on 18th century origins of the American radical tradition. He said he has been granted a Morse fellowship which will permit him to do the research at full pay.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 16, the 47th day of 1966. There are 318 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1804, the U.S. frigate Philadelphia ran aground and was captured while pursuing a pirate ship in Tripoli Harbor. Lt. Stephen Decatur, with only 75 men in a captured ketch, boarded the Philadelphia and set her afire. British Admiral Nelson called it the most bold and daring act of the age.

On this date in 1846, the first Texas State Legislature met in Austin, the capital.

In 1871, the Franco-Prussian War ended, with the French defeated and the Prussians in control of the German Empire.

In 1918, the English port of Dover was bombed by a German submarine.

Ten years ago—President Dwight D. Eisenhower issued an executive order virtually exempting fathers and men 26 and older from the draft.

Five years ago—A communications balloon was launched into orbit from Wallops Island, Va.

One year ago—Three Negro men and a Canadian white woman were arrested on charges of plotting to destroy the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument.

The black bear has a peculiar habit of treading in the same path which becomes, in time, a recognizable trail and often leads to its destruction.

Four Deputy Registrars Serve County

License plates for 1966 will go on sale Mar. 1 at four locations in Pickaway County.

Edgar M. Webb, deputy registrar here, has his office located in the basement of the Courthouse. In addition to auto tags, the office has truck and trailer plates and issues operators and chauffeurs licenses.

In Ashville, the deputy registrar is Gretchen Feltheringham, located at 3 N. Long St., where motorists may obtain auto tags, operators and chauffeurs licenses.

In New Holland, Betty J. Cross, 39 E. Front St., will have auto tags only. Ruth E. Long, is the deputy registrar in Williamsport where auto tags may be obtained.

Laurelville's deputy registrar is Evelyn Mettler, doing business in Mettler's store. Kingston's deputy registrar is H. S. Boggs Jr., with his office at Main and Ing Sts.

James R. Mahoney, Main St., Adelphi, has been appointed deputy registrar there.

The 1966 license plates have a red background with white numerals and letters.

Portsmouth College Woos Latin American Students

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The sign on the door says "Portsmouth Interstate Business College," but the enrollment makes the school more like "Portsmouth International Business College."

Leo Blackburn, the college president, lists about 10 per cent of the students as members of a foreign students program which started in 1963 with a single scholarship.

To date 28 foreign students have enrolled, including Miss Panama of 1963. Other students, all girls, come from such widely separated countries as Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Japan and the latest from Saigon, South Viet Nam.

Blackburn's son, Lt. David Blackburn, then serving in the Canal Zone, started the parade of Latin women when he selected America Ginsberg of Panama as the first scholarship recipient.

Panama newspapers picked up the story, and other girls became interested. By September 1963, Lila Cambra and Tresa Rodriguez of Panama, and Rosa Arias, Aminta Eraso and Cecilia Rivera of Honduras had completed enrollment requirements at the Portsmouth school.

Following the response from the initial program, Blackburn and the college started a series of letters, advertisements and personal visits to promote the foreign interest.

Blackburn, studied Spanish, and made trips to major cities in Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica,

2 Astronauts Book Goodwill Korea Visit

SEOUL (AP)—Two U.S. astronauts, Walter Schirra and Frank Borman, will visit South Korea Feb. 26 to 28, the American Embassy announced today. The embassy said Schirra and Borman will make the visit on a scientific goodwill mission as part of an Asian tour accompanied by several other representatives of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Imported canned goods probably will be disappearing soon, but Rhodesia produces most of its basic foodstuffs, including meat. Most fruits and vegetables are grown and canned here and locally produced frozen vegetables also are available.

The supply of Scotch whisky is so abundant the dealers have been able to indulge in a price war. It has been selling for $4.50 a quart, American bourbon at $4.90.

There is, however, no noticeable weakening in Rhodesia's defiance three months after independence day and the beginning of the economic war. "Forward Rhodesia" stickers seem to sprout on windshields and shop windows.

Blackburn studied Spanish, and made trips to major cities in Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica, Honduras, Guatemala, Mexico and El Salvador.

Of the 28 girls who have enrolled at the school, many have completed the course of study and returned to their homes, landing good bilingual office jobs," according to Blackburn. Two have stayed in Portsmouth.

Miss Ginsberg, the first in the program, is employed locally by an insurance brokerage firm specializing in writing group policies for nationwide accounts.

Rosa Arias, whose father is a Honduras merchant, was the fourth girl in the program, and is the second in Portsmouth, with a banking company.

Parents of the girls are predominantly merchants. A few girls listed the parent's occupation as civil servant; one was a Bolivian Army major, one a Bolivian farmer and one a Costa Rica farmer. One father is a Panama shrimp and fish broker, a few are contractors, one mother is a teacher and one father is a druggist.

Miss Panama of 1963, Mariela Aguirre, who entered the school last September, listed her father as a professor and her mother as a nurse.

The international students are placed in homes here where they live with their hosts as members of the family.

President Blackburn, still ambitious for more foreign students as well as more area students, has just returned from a trip to Puerto Rico promoting the international aspects of Portsmouth Interstate Business College.

Defendant Placed Near Slaying in Mossler Case

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — State testimony has placed Melvin Lane Powers near the home of his uncle less than six hours before the multimillionaire was slain.

The state currently is directing its efforts toward a complicated but fascinating phase of the first-degree murder trial. It is attempting to prove the element of opportunity — which involves the painstaking retracing of the defendant's footsteps in an effort to show that he was in the vicinity of the crime and therefore could have committed it.

Powers is on trial for his life with his attractive blonde aunt, Candace Mossler, in the June 30, 1964, slaying of her husband, Jacques, 69, head of a $33-million banking and loan empire.

Aunt and nephew have been depicted by the state as participants in a blazing, abnormal love affair although he is 29 and she is 10 or more years older. Today, the state was expected to continue tracing Powers' movements surrounding the 1:45 a.m. period when Mossler was bludgeoned and stabbed 39 times.

State witnesses said Tuesday that Powers placed a telephone call to Miami from Houston, Tex., the day before the slaying, impatiently left his business firm, rushed aboard a flight to the Florida city and ended up near Mossler's Key Biscayne apartment with an empty soda bottle — a possible death weapon.

Complicating the case against Mrs. Mossler and her nephew was an unsummoned witness, potentially reluctant to serve the state. He is William Measamer, of Sanford, N.C., who said he became Mrs. Mossler's lover after her nephew was jailed on a murder charge.

In an affidavit submitted in Judge George Schulz' courtroom Tuesday in the absence of the jury, Measamer was quoted as saying that during a sexual interlude in September 1964, Mrs. Mossler remarked that "it wasn't fair for Mel and she hated to think of him being in jail."

Measamer in his affidavit said Mrs. Mossler asked him to tell a Miami grand jury that her husband, less than three months dead, was a homosexual. The defense has contended that Mossler could have been slain by a fellow member in an underworld of sexual perversion.

1 rolled boneless chuck roast (about 3 pounds)
45-HOUR MARINADE:
1/2 cup wine vinegar
1/2 cup olive oil or salad oil
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon Italian seasoning
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup water

1. Pierce roast deeply all over with a fork. Mix remaining ingredients in a large bowl; place roast in bowl, turning to coat well; cover. Chill, turning meat several times, about two days.
2. When ready to cook, remove roast from marinade, saving marinade in a small saucepan. Place roast on spit. If using a meat thermometer, insert into center of roast. Set spit in position over hot coals; start rotisserie.
3. Roast, brushing several times with marinade, about 1 1/2 hours for rare, or until thermometer registers 140°. Carve into 1/2" thick slices. Makes 6 servings.

Cong Terror Tactics Seem Aimed At Anyone Viet People Respect

By HUGH MULLIGAN
PHU THIANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Just before moonrise on a sultry, star-bright night, the Communist cadre slipped into the village. They worked silently and set up loudspeakers outside the house of Le Van Tien. The message that they broadcast:

Unless Le resigned his appointment as platoon leader of the new government outpost on the banks of the Cai Sao Canal, his wife would be kidnapped and his aging parents murdered.

The Cai Sao outpost had been completed a few months before by the South Viet Nam government, with the help of American funds and building materials, to protect this key rice growing village in the Mekong Delta from being overrun by the Viet Cong. It had sturdy, four-foot thick walls, and was manned by a well-trained, well-equipped popular force platoon. The little barbed-wire enclosed fort was considered a model defense against guerrilla attack. But it had trouble keeping a platoon leader.

The first was Le's father-in-law, who had fought the Japanese, the French and the Communists. Two days after taking over, his body was found floating in the canal. Le's older brother assumed command. Two months later, Le's brother drove to Vinh Long, the province capital, on his motor scooter and was never seen again.

Two hundred miles farther north, Dang Huu Hong, chief of the jungle province of Quang Duc, went for a ride in his jeep. Dang Huu Hong was a gracious, urbane man, brave too. He had been a high school principal in Tay Son, 65 miles from Hanoi, before the Communists took over and he fled south to fight against them.

The burst of a .50-caliber machine gun cut him down. It was hidden in the depression of a hill, where the road wound out of the 100-foot high trees into a clearing.

On another day in another village, Dak Pek, on the border of Laos high in the Annamite Mountains, 50 rounds of mortar fire fell on the little red school house built by the American special forces team. The school teachers fled. Then the little tin roofed church was set on fire. The priests fled. At Song Be, another special forces camp, guerrilla infiltrators broke into the dispensary and shot up the wounded. The doctors and nurses fled.

Viet Cong terror. Eliminate those in authority, anyone whom the people respect: Doctors, nurses, priests, teachers.

Early in January, Tu Chung, an anti-Communist editorial writer on a pro-government Saigon newspaper, was gunned down after repeated threats against his life. On Jan. 8, John Haywood, a missionary with the Worldwide Evangelization Crusade, was machine gunned to death as he stepped from his station wagon on the highway between Da Nang and Hue. As the month ended, six members of a government psychological warfare team, returning from an inspection of village and hamlet information programs, were ambushed on a road 25 miles northwest of Saigon by gunmen wearing khaki uniforms.

In a single week in January, the South Vietnamese government logged 1,100 incidents of terror: Sabotage, village raids, kidnappings, bombs hurled at police barracks, bridges blown, village, hamlet and district leaders shot, buried alive or burned to death. "Selective terror," American military spokesmen call it, hacking away gradually, constantly, determinedly at the people who can make a civilization click, make a government go: The leaders in every walk of life.

Those who wonder why the government in Saigon has trouble maintaining authority out in the provinces will find part of their answer here.

Since the Americans began pouring into South Viet Nam, incidents of violence against local officials have dropped sparily, but the totals still are appalling.

In all, in 1965, there were 28,000 incidents of terror, resulting in more than 12,000 recorded kidnappings and killings.

The toll in terms of people of influence and leadership has had a terribly vitiating effect on the attempts of the government in Saigon to put together a viable political system throughout the country. A man who submits himself for public office, whether as platoon leader in the little outpost on the banks of the Cai Sao Canal or as province chief of Quang Duc, is a man marked for murder.

Among South Viet Nam's 15,715,000 population, hard-lining, pro-Ho Chi Minh Communists probably number less than 200,000. Yet to stand up against them, in print, at a school desk, in a pulpit, requires extraordinary courage.

The outpost at Phu Thanh — had a happy ending — at least so far.

10 The Circleville Herald, Wed. Feb. 16, 1966
Circleville, Ohio

Proud of his new rank of corporal, Platoon Leader Le Van Tien sent his answer to the Communist cadre that same night.

"Kidnap my wife, she is a girl and is weak," he told them. "Kill my mother and father. They are old and cannot fight. It is not so important that they go on living. But my friends are young and strong and willing to fight. It is better that 50 of them live so there always will be others to take my place."

His defiance brought no response from the Viet Cong but it delighted Maj. Luong Dinh Bay, the grizzled chief of the Chau Thanh District, who has been a man marked for murder for nearly 20 years.

"This is how the war will be won, if it is to be won," he said.

Cong Terror Tactics Seem Aimed At Anyone Viet People Respect

By HUGH MULLIGAN
PHU THANH, South Viet Nam (AP) — Just before moonrise on a sultry, star-bright night, the Communist cadre slipped into the village. They worked silently and set up loudspeakers outside the house of Le Van Tien.

The message that they broadcast: Unless Le resigned his appointment as platoon leader of the new government outpost on the banks of the Cai Sao Canal, his wife would be kidnapped and his aging parents murdered.

The Cai Sao outpost had been completed a few months before by the South Viet Nam government, with the help of American funds and building materials, to protect this key rice growing village in the Mekong Delta from being overrun by the Viet Cong. It had sturdy, four-foot thick walls, and was manned by a well-trained, well-equipped popular force platoon. The little barbed-wire enclosed fort was considered a model defense against guerrilla attack. But it had trouble keeping a platoon leader.

The first was Le's father-in-law, who had fought the Japanese, the French and the Communists. Two days after taking over, his body was found floating in the canal. Le's older brother assumed command. Two months later, Le's brother drove to Vinh Long, the province capital, on his motor scooter and was never seen again.

Two hundred miles farther north, Dang Huu Hong, chief of the jungle province of Quang Duc, went for a ride in his jeep.

Dang Huu Hong was a gracious, urbane man, brave too. He had been a high school principal in Tay Son, 65 miles from Hanoi, before the Communists took over and he fled south to fight against them.

The burst of a .50-caliber machine gun cut him down. It was hidden in the depression of a hill, where the road wound out of the 100-foot high trees into a clearing.

On another day in another village, Dak Pek, on the border of Laos high in the Annamite Mountains, 50 rounds of mortar fire fell on the little red school house built by the American special forces team. The school teachers fled. Then the little tin roofed church was set on fire. The priests fled. At Song Be, another special forces camp, guerrilla infiltrators broke into the dispensary and shot up the wounded. The doctors and nurses fled.

Viet Cong terror. Eliminate those in authority, anyone whom the people respect: Doctors, nurses, priests, teachers.

Early in January, Tu Chung, an anti-Communist editorial writer on a pro-government Saigon newspaper, was gunned down after repeated threats against his life. On Jan. 8, John Haywood, a missionary with the Worldwide Evangelization Crusade, was machine gunned to death as he stepped from his station wagon on the highway between Da Nang and Hue. As the month ended, six members of a government psychological warfare team, returning from an inspection of village and hamlet information programs, were ambushed on a road 25 miles northwest of Saigon by gunmen wearing khaki uniforms.

In a single week in January, the South Vietnamese government logged 1,100 incidents of terror: Sabotage, village raids, kidnappings, bombs hurled at police barracks, bridges blown, village, hamlet and district leaders shot, buried alive or burned to death. "Selective terror," American military spokesmen call it, hacking away gradually, constantly, determinedly at the people who can make a civilization click, make a government go: The leaders in every walk of life.

Those who wonder why the government in Saigon has trouble maintaining authority out in the provinces will find part of their answer here.

Since the Americans began pouring into South Viet Nam, incidents of violence against local officials have dropped sparily, but the totals still are appalling.

In all, in 1965, there were 28,000 incidents of terror, resulting in more than 12,000 recorded kidnappings and killings.

The toll in terms of people of influence and leadership has had a terribly vitiating effect on the attempts of the government in Saigon to put together a viable political system throughout the country. A man who submits himself for public office, whether as platoon leader in the little outpost on the banks of the Cai Sao Canal or as province chief of Quang Duc, is a man marked for murder.

Among South Viet Nam's 15,715,000 population, hard-lining, pro-Ho Chi Minh Communists probably number less than 200,000. Yet to stand up against them, in print, at a school desk, in a pulpit, requires extraordinary courage.

The outpost at Phu Thanh — had a happy ending — at least so far.

10 The Circleville Herald, Wed. Feb. 16, 1966
Circleville, Ohio

Proud of his new rank of corporal, Platoon Leader Le Van Tien sent his answer to the Communist cadre that same night.

"Kidnap my wife, she is a girl and is weak," he told them. "Kill my mother and father. They are old and cannot fight. It is not so important that they go on living. But my friends are young and strong and willing to fight. It is better that 50 of them live so there always will be others to take my place."

His defiance brought no response from the Viet Cong but it delighted Maj. Luong Dinh Bay, the grizzled chief of the Chau Thanh District, who has been a man marked for murder for nearly 20 years.

"This is how the war will be won, if it is to be won," he said.

Meningitis Toll Called 'Normal'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The number of cases of meningitis, a respiratory - spread disease caused by bacteria, is normal for this time of year among civilians and military personnel, the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center reports.

Dr. Philip S. Brachman of the CDC said latest figures show meningitis affected 58 civilians and four military personnel last week and not all of these cases revealed signs of symptoms. In a comparable period last year, the CDC listed 54 civilians and nine military personnel with the disease.

4.4 Million Elderly Still Shy on Medicare
BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Some 4.4 million elderly persons eligible for supplementary medical insurance under the medicare program have not applied, says Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball. Ball said at a meeting at Social Security headquarters in Woodlawn, Md., that a concerted attempt will be made to contact as many of these people as possible to explain the advantages of enrolling. The deadline is March 31.

CATV Offer Held To First Reading

A proposal calling for the operation of a community antenna television operation in Circleville was one of two ordinances held to first reading Tuesday night by City Council.

The solons found themselves powerless to enact the ordinances due to the absence of Joseph Bell and Keith Wagner members and Mayor Ben Gordon. Council President Harold Clifton reverted to the role of mayor and a motion named John Jenkins to serve as acting president pro-tem in the absence of Bell.

The switch left the solons short of the number required to take final legislative action. The other ordinance affected concerned a request to vacate a section of W. Mill St. that extends westward from Canal St. to a deadend at the Route 23 right-of-way.

Both sides of the Mill St. section are bordered by Container Corporation property and the street itself is used almost exclusively by Container. The firm previously had petitioned the city to vacate the street.

THE COMMUNITY Antenna Television (CATV) ordinance listed 22 sections concerning operations here as proposed by the Multi - Channel Cable Co. of Portsmouth. Offers to erect facilities in Circleville were presented in July of last year. A Council committee under David Crawford has conducted an extensive study since that time.

The Multi - Channel firm is seeking a franchise here for a period of 15 years. Participation by residents would be on a voluntary basis at a cost of about $5 per month and an installation fee of $10.

The CATV operation generally has been defined as a one-way distribution service that transmits signals to subscriber TV sets. It has become increasingly popular on its merits of improved reception and ability to increase the number of channels available to viewers.

Functioning of the 1,600 CATV systems now existing in the county has provoked considerable controversy, especially from television stations that claim their property rights are not treated fairly. The contention is that the cable service profits from programs developed by others without paying for them or obtaining consent to use them.

The Federal Communications Commission has asserted jurisdiction over all CATV systems, although Congress has not enacted any legislation calling for a basic national policy to follow.

Numerous communities in Ohio have granted cable system franchises to various CATV firms, while others have rejected proposals or held off at least until congressional legislation is enacted.

THE ORDINANCE submitted here includes all operational regulations, establishment of rates and fees to be paid to the city.

Although the lawmakers found themselves shorthanded, they were able to adopt a resolution authorizing the Board of Public Utilities to advertise for bids for cast iron pipe, valves and fittings for 1966.

13 Trained As Red Cross Volunteers

The Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross has completed a basic training program for volunteers.

Mrs. Amelia Garner, instructor, was in charge of 13 new volunteers who participated in the training program. It was conducted as a one-day session.

Volunteers and their assignments are: Berger Hospital — Mrs. Irene Seum, Mrs. Jane Bruny, Mrs. Sue Schneider, Mrs. Sandy Jones and Mrs. Judi Miller. Already serving at the Chillicothe VA Hospital — Mrs. Clara DeLong, Mrs. Phyllis Green, Mark DeLong, R. E. Gosnell and Alvin Recobs.

Staff aid — Mrs. Louise Wardell. Production at VA Hospital — Mrs. Josephine Dille. Unit chairman of swimming and a motor service volunteer — Mrs. Marilyn McClood.

SITTING in on the training program were Mrs. Mable Recobs, VA Hospital volunteer and Buckeye Council chairman; and Mrs. Waneta Will, assistant chairman of volunteers.

Akronite, 102, Applies For Social Security

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Will Mullins shuffled into the Social Security office last Friday to see if he could begin collecting some benefits. He's 102.

Mullins, who held his last full-time job in 1946 at 82, apparently didn't know about Social Security until a relative told him about it. His interest had been aroused by recent publicity about Medicare.

A Social Security representative said Mullins is probably eligible for the minimum benefit of $44 a month.

hand, the FCC also clamped down on the introduction of CATV systems in big cities. It required all systems seeking to serve the top 100 television markets to first obtain its approval.

Henry's administrative assistant, John F. Cushman, explained that the major consideration behind that move was to promote the possibility of a fourth nationwide television network that would broadcast on ultra high frequency — UHF — channels.

Henry, however, offered another reason for the big city restrictions. "We said we were going to take a look at the way CATV grew in the top markets," he said, "because we've been told it might become a market for pay TV."

Congressional Seniority Is Protected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special committee studying proposals to make Congress more efficient isn't likely to advocate any tampering with the time-honored seniority system.

The committee, composed of six senators and six representatives, is combing through 2,063 pages of testimony and documents submitted during hearings last year. It has until the end of this year to make recommendations.

"But you can bet," a member said privately today, "that whatever recommendations we do come up with, we don't propose any substantial changes in the seniority system."

The seniority system provides for advancement in Congress through the process of continued re-election and longevity. That is why most of the committee chairmen are older men. The average age of a committee chairman is 66.

While there is nothing in the rules saying the seniority system must be followed, there is an unwritten law supporting it.

Only once in recent history has the system been disregarded when a promotion was in order. Last year the House moved Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., from the No. 2 spot on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee to the bottom of the list. Had that not happened, Williams would be chairman today because the chairman last year, Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., resigned to become a federal judge.

The action against Williams was a punitive one. He supported Republican Barry Goldwater for the presidency, and his Democratic colleagues decided to make an example of him.

Of the estimated 300 recommendations given to the reorganization committee, about 20 deal with the seniority system.

They would require chairmen to step down at the age of 70, rotate chairmanships among senior members, let each committee elect its own chairman by secret ballot, limit to 10 or 12 years the time a member could serve as a chairman, consider all members with 20 or more years of service equal in seniority, and limit the number of committee chairmanships that could be held by members from the same geographic area.

The geographical limitation would hit the South hardest. Nine of the 16 Senate committees are headed by Southerners, as are 11 of the 20 House committees.

Heavy Rainfall Helps New York's Reservoirs

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavy rains last weekend added 4.7 billion gallons to the city's reservoirs.

But water levels remained below normal—only 41.8 per cent of capacity. The normal level for the date is 75.5 per cent of capacity, water officials said.

'Brain Drain' to East Is Labeled as Fallacy

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The so-called "brain drain" of top students from all parts of the nation to the East is a fallacy according to a leading educator.

Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt, director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, said a study based on 2,500 Woodrow Wilson fellows showed most of them returned home after completing graduate study.

Tax on Taxicab Too High; Hack Is Given to State

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Gene Austin of Greenwood gave his car to the state.

Austin appeared Monday at a State Board of Equalization meeting, told the board taxes on the car were too high, then tossed his auto title on the desk.

When Secretary of State Frank Marsh said the state couldn't accept the car, Austin replied:

"I'm going to abandon it on a state lot, yank the plates off and leave it whether you want it or not. You're stuck."

The car is a used 1961 taxicab which Austin said he bought last year for $100. This year, he said, his county assessor valued it at $180 with taxes of $18.

The title will be turned over to the state attorney general.

Shapely Brunette, 22, Named Deputy Sheriff

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Things haven't been the same around the courthouse since a shapely 22-year-old brunette was sworn in as Albemarle County's first woman deputy sheriff.

"It scares me half to death, because being a deputy is a lot different for a woman," says Nancy Norvelle. "It's a lot of responsibility. I just hope I can live up to the expectations of Sheriff (W.S.) Cook."

Miss Norvelle will carry a revolver, and later on she will attend a police school.

No Change in Programs Seen from CATV Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — How will the new ruling on community antenna television affect programs in the two million American homes equipped with the service?

Not at all, says Chairman E. William Henry of the Federal Communications Commission.

"There's no change," Henry said in an interview. "The only thing it's going to do is perhaps force the local broadcaster to be more on his toes and put on the kind of program that will ensure his place in the market."

Actually, Henry said, "we've been putting some conditions on CATV for almost two years now with no problems." He predicted that federal control over CATV would not affect the average monthly cost of the service, now about 4.50.

CATV systems work this way: Huge antennas are put up near communities in poor television reception areas. They pull down the signals of distant stations and feed them — sometimes by microwave relays—over a cable and into the homes of subscribers. In metropolitan areas, the systems provide clearer pictures and more channel selection.

The FCC took over control of the 1,600 CATV systems Tuesday. At the same time it dropped its 15-day rule aimed at protecting FCC-licensed television stations. The rule prevented CATV systems from duplicating locally broadcast programs for 15 days before and after their broadcast.

"What the commission did," an FCC spokesman said, "doesn't really change anything. It extends FCC jurisdiction to all CATV systems, but it did so under rules which by and large will have almost a minimal effect."

"I doubt if the average viewer will notice it very much."

Henry described Tuesday's moves as the "best of both worlds. We put into effect the same rules we've had for years, except that we've reduced the level of protection to local TV stations."

CATV Offer Held To First Reading

A proposal calling for the operation of a community antenna television operation in Circleville was one of two ordinances held to first reading Tuesday night by City Council.

The solons found themselves powerless to enact the ordinances due to the absence of Joseph Bell and Keith Wagner members and Mayor Ben Gordon. Council President Harold Clifton reverted to the role of mayor and a motion named John Jenkins to serve as acting president pro tem in the absence of Bell.

The switch left the solons short of the number required to take final legislative action. The other ordinance affected concerned a request to vacate a section of W. Mill St. that extends westward from Canal St. to a deadend at the Route 23 right-of-way.

Both sides of the Mill St. section are bordered by Container Corporation property and the street itself is used almost exclusively by Container. The firm previously had petitioned the city to vacate the street.

THE COMMUNITY Antenna Television (CATV) ordinance listed 22 sections concerning operations here as proposed by the Multi - Channel Cable Co. of Portsmouth. Offers to erect facilities in Circleville were presented in July of last year. A Council committee under David Crawford has conducted an extensive study since that time.

The Multi - Channel firm is seeking a franchise here for a period of 15 years. Participation by residents would be on a

No Change in Programs Seen from CATV Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — How will the new ruling on community antenna television affect programs in the two million American homes equipped with the service?

Actually, Henry said, "we've been putting some conditions on CATV for almost two years now with no problems." He predicted that federal control over CATV would not affect the average monthly cost of the service, now about 4.50.

CATV systems work this way: Huge antennas are put up near communities in poor television reception areas. They pull down the signals of distant stations and feed them — sometimes by microwave relays — over a cable and into the homes of subscri-voluntary basis at a cost of about $5 per month and an installation fee of $10.

The CATV operation generally has been defined as a one-way distribution service that transmits signals to subscriber TV sets. It has become increasingly popular on its merits of improved reception and ability to increase the number of channels available to viewers.

Functioning of the 1,600 CATV systems now existing in the county has provoked considerable controversy, especially from television stations that claim their property rights are not treated fairly. The contention is that the cable service profits from programs developed by others without paying for them or obtaining consent to use them.

The Federal Communications Commission has asserted jurisdiction over all CATV systems, although Congress has not enacted any legislation calling for a basic national policy to follow.

Numerous communities in Ohio have granted cable system franchises to various CATV firms, while others have rejected proposals or held off at least until congressional legislation is enacted.

THE ORDINANCE submitted here includes all operational regulations, establishment of rates and fees to be paid to the city.

Although the lawmakers found themselves shorthanded, they were able to adopt a resolution authorizing the Board of Public Utilities to advertise for bids for cast iron pipe, valves and fittings for 1966.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government had some bad news today for American housewives.

The Agriculture Department said they probably will have to pay $102.30 this year for the same amount of food that cost them $100 last year. It predicted food prices will climb as much this year as they did in 1965 — 2.3 per cent.

But the department said prices are expected to level off and possibly decline later in the year.

Rice Farmers Set To Help Feed Vietnamese

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said Tuesday U.S. rice farmers will increase their acreage so they can ship South Viet Nam as much of its staple food as it needs.

"We do not propose to let the Viet Cong or the speculators dominate the rice situation in Viet Nam," Freeman said at the end of a five-day visit. "We will bring in enough rice to see that this is true."

He said President Johnson already has authorized an increase in the U.S. rice acreage to provide enough to meet demands.

Asked for an estimate of rice imports from the United States, Freeman said this would depend on how the situation develops. South Viet Nam once produced all the rice it needed but because of the war it must now import millions of tons.

The secretary said he found South Viet Nam's agriculture much more advanced than he had expected. He stressed that fertilizer is just as important as bullets in the war effort.

Freeman said he had found a firm resolve on both the military and civilian side that the "second front" will command "proper priority in the future."

His reference to a second front was to the work of pacification, rural reconstruction, development of the civilian economy and agriculture on which Johnson put chief emphasis at the Honolulu conference with the leaders of South Viet Nam's government.

"I knew this was a principle but I found here that there is real dedication to this principle," Freeman said.

"After all, 85 per cent of the people in Viet Nam are dependent on agriculture. Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky and the others are aware of its importance to the people. The war cannot be won without a healthy and expanding agriculture."

Freeman said he and the technical experts who accompanied him would submit their report to the President shortly

Brown Schedules Coleman Hearing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has agreed to conduct a hearing on whether State Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman is a legal candidate for nomination to run for lieutenant governor.

The Coleman hearing is on request of John E. Jones Jr. of Columbus, who formally protested to Brown Monday that Coleman was still on the Union County Board of Elections at the same time he was a candidate.

Brown backed Coleman's contention that filing for office automatically removed him from the election board but said he is required by law to grant the hearing.

Flood Control Progress Seen

Ohio Valley Plan Curtails Damage

CINCINNATI (AP) —Floods have been a feature of the Ohio Valley as far back as history goes, but in recent years men have been trying to do something about them.

When the first settlers came floating downstream on flatboats in the 1780s, Indians showed them marks on trees and told of a great flood about 10 years before.

Years later, experts estimated that flood crested at about 76 feet—A stage exceeded only by the flood that hit the Ohio Valley in 1937, causing some 500 deaths and more than $420 million in property damage.

A complex system of flood control dams and reservoirs on the Ohio's tributaries was only in the planning stage when the 1937 flood crested at 80 feet. Since then, U. S. Army Engineers estimate millions of dollars and scores of lives have been saved by the flood control system they credit with shaving three to five feet off the crests of recent floods.

The flood control system will consist of 39 dams and reservoirs, plus 62 floodwalls and levees. About half the projects have been completed at a cost of more than $650 million. Harry H. Mack, chairman of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association said recently that the dams have prevented $1.25 billion in flood damage.

Mack said $290 million damage was avoided two years ago when the last previous flood hit the Ohio Valley. That time the Ohio crested at 66.2 feet in Cincinnati and damage was estimated at $106 million while the Red Cross said 30,000 families had to leave their homes.

A year before, another flood also displaced thousands and caused $100 million damage with a crest of 59.3 feet at Cincinnati. There was no Ohio River flood in 1965.

Why "Good-Time" Charlie Suffers Uneasy Bladder

Unwise eating or drinking may be a source of mild but annoying bladder irritations—making you feel restless, tense and uncomfortable. Doan's Pills often help to bring prompt relief in two ways: 1) their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation; and 2) a mild diuretic action through the kidneys tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

And if restless nights, with nagging backache, headache or muscular aches and pains due to over-exertion, strain or emotional upset, are adding to your misery—don't wait—try Doan's Pills. With their speedy pain-relieving action, Doan's Pills work promptly to ease torment of nagging backache, headaches, muscular aches and pains. So get the same happy relief that millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. For convenience, use Doan's Pills large size. Get Doan's Pills today!

The World Today

By BARRY SCHWEID
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine years ago the Supreme Court decided sex isn't necessarily obscene. Perhaps it would have been just as well if the court had stopped there.

But the justices didn't. They went on to try to define obscenity. And though they have refined the definition since, no one seems entirely satisfied, least of all the justices themselves.

The reason: The definition appears to have posed as many questions as it answered. The result: The court took on a new batch of obscenity cases this session, others are being pressed on it and a new definition may be in prospect before adjournment.

This much is clear: unless there is a great change of heart on the bench certain types of literature will remain outside the First Amendment guarantee of free speech. And both the federal and state governments will retain the right to censor this material and to jail the publisher.

Thus, in a sense, the United States hasn't moved very far from 1712 when Massachusetts made it criminal to publish "any filthy, obscene, or profane song, pamphlet, libel or mock sermon."

What has changed is that limits have been placed on the censor and the court has tried to narrow down what may legitimately be considered obscene.

A sexy tract can't be banned unless it has "a tendency to excite lustful thoughts."

The dominant theme of the material as a whole — not a passage or a page or two — must be taken into consideration.

"All ideas having even the slightest redeeming social importance" must be given the "full protection" of free speech. And the material must be considered obscene by the "average person" applying "contemporary standards."

This, then, is the keystone of the Supreme Court's definition — and its guideline to lower courts, publishers and the nation.

But what, exactly, is a "lustful thought" and how do you prove it was excited by the material in question? Who is to judge if an idea has "social importance" and decide by law in which there is more contemporary standards" and who is the "average person" equipped to apply them?

Antarctic Topic Of Rotary Meet

Dr. Emanuel Rudolph of the Institute of Polar Studies at Ohio State University will be the program speaker at this week's meeting of the Circleville Rotary Club.

Dr. Rudolph's subject will be "Life in The Antarctic." Robert Burton will be in charge of the program.

The regular luncheon session will be conducted in the St. Philip's Church Parish House.

"We know of no area of the law in which there is more confusion," the Arkansas Supreme Court said last May.

The record bears evidence of considerable division of the Supreme Court.

Two years ago in a movie case Justice William J. Brennan said obscenity should be judged against a national standard while Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Tom C. Clark doubled any exists. Instead they would have "community standards" applied.

Justices William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black, meanwhile, have said "any test that turns on what is offensive to the community's standards" cannot be squared with the First Amendment.

And Justice Potter Stewart has said criminal obscenity laws should be limited to "hard-core pornography."

Perhaps best illustrating that the field is mined with subjective judgments, he said he might never be able to define such material and yet added: "I know it when I see it."

Years later, experts estimated that flood crested at about 76 feet—A stage exceeded only by the flood that hit the Ohio Valley in 1937, causing some 500 deaths and more than $420 million in property damage.

A complex system of flood control dams and reservoirs on the Ohio's tributaries was only in the planning stage when the 1937 flood crested at 80 feet. Since then, U. S. Army Engineers estimate millions of dollars and scores of lives have been saved by the flood control system they credit with shaving three to five feet off the crests of recent floods.

The flood control system will consist of 39 dams and reservoirs, plus 62 floodwalls and levees. About half the projects have been completed at a cost of more than $650 million. Harry H. Mack, chairman of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, said recently that the dams have prevented $125 billion in flood damage.

Mack said $290 million damage was avoided two years ago when the last previous flood hit the Ohio Valley. That time the Ohio crested at 66.2 feet in Cincinnati and damage was estimated at $106 million while the Red Cross said 30,000 families had to leave their homes.

A year before, another flood also displaced thousands and caused $100 million damage with a crest of 59.3 feet at Cincinnati. There was no Ohio River flood in 1965.

Why "Good-Time" Charlie Suffers Uneasy Bladder

Unwise eating or drinking may be a source of mild but annoying bladder irritations—making you feel restless, tense and uncomfortable. Doan's Pills often help to bring prompt relief in two ways: 1) their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation; and 2) a mild diuretic action through the kidneys tending to increase output of the 1½ miles of kidney tubes. And if restless nights, nagging backache, headache or muscular aches and pains due to over-exertion, strain or emotional upset, are adding to your misery—don't wait—try Doan's Pills. With their speedy pain-relieving action, Doan's Pills work promptly to ease torment of nagging backache, headache, muscular aches and pains. So get the same happy relief that millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. For convenience, use Doan's Pills large size. Get Doan's Pills today!

The World Today

By BARRY SCHWEID
For Ja-ees Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine years ago the Supreme Court decided sex isn't necessarily obscene. Perhaps it would have been just as well if the court had stopped there.

But the justices didn't. They went on to try to define obscenity. And though they have refined the definition since, no one seems entirely satisfied, least of all the justices themselves.

The reason: The definition appears to have posed as many questions as it answered. The result: The court took on a new batch of obscenity cases this session, others are being pressed on it and a new definition may be in prospect before adjournment.

This much is clear: unless there is a great change of heart on the bench certain types of literature will remain outside the First Amendment guarantee of free speech. And both the federal and state governments will retain the right to censor this material and to jail the publisher.

Thus, in a sense, the United States hasn't moved very far from 1712 when Massachusetts made it criminal to publish "any filthy, obscene, or profane song, pamphlet, libel or mock sermon."

What has changed is that limits have been placed on the censor and the court has tried to narrow down what may legitimately be considered obscene.

A sexy tract can't be banned unless it has "a tendency to excite lustful thoughts."

The dominant theme of the material as a whole — not a passage or a page or two — must be taken into consideration.

"All ideas having even the slightest redeeming social importance" must be given the "full protection" of free speech. And the material must be considered obscene by the "average person" applying "contemporary standards."

This, then, is the keystone of the Supreme Court's definition — and its guideline to lower courts, publishers and the nation.

But what, exactly, is a "lustful thought" and how do you prove it was excited by the material in question? Who is to judge if an idea has "social importance" and decide by law in which there is more contemporary standards" and who is the "average person" equipped to apply them?

Antarctic Topic Of Rotary Meet

Dr. Emanuel Rudolph of the Institute of Polar Studies at Ohio State University will be the program speaker at this week's meeting of the Circleville Rotary Club.

Dr. Rudolph's subject will be "Life in The Antarctic." Robert Burton will be in charge of the program.

The regular luncheon session will be conducted in the St. Philip's Church Parish House.

"We know of no area of the law in which there is more confusion," the Arkansas Supreme Court said last May.

The record bears evidence of considerable division of the Supreme Court.

Two years ago in a movie case Justice William J. Brennan said obscenity should be judged against a national standard while Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Tom C. Clark doubted any exists. Instead they would have "community standards" applied.

Justices William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black, meanwhile, have said "any test that turns on what is offensive to the community's standards" cannot be squared with the First Amendment.

And Justice Potter Stewart has said criminal obscenity laws should be limited to "hard-core pornography."

Perhaps best illustrating that the field is mined with subjective judgments, he said he might never be able to define such material and yet added: "I know it when I see it."

Chemical Firm Mum On New Plant Report

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dow Chemical Co. has declined to confirm or deny reports it has taken options on land for a new plant in Belmont County.

The firm was asked Tuesday about the reports from a radio station that the company is considering locating a plant in the county.

Windbreak Plantings Are on Increase

The planting of windbreaks, as a soil and water conservation practice, by landowners in Ohio is on the increase, according to Don Archer, Conservationist for the Pickaway Soil Conservation Service.

Area farmers who have established windbreak plantings recently include Bruce Stevenson Jr., Route 2; Winifred Bidwell, Williamsport; and R. G. Carpenter, Mt. Sterling.

Contributing to this increasing interest has been the removal of natural wind barriers such as fence rows, small woodlots and individual trees. The larger open spaces permit higher wind

Cleveland Catholics Relieved of Lent Rule

CLEVELAND (AP)—A regulation obligating Catholics to fast and abstain from meat on weekdays during lent will be dropped for 860,000 Catholics in the eight-county Cleveland Diocese.

The ruling by Coadjutor Bishop Clarence G. Isenmann was mailed to priests of the diocese Tuesday. The usual rule of abstaining from meat on Fridays remains unchanged.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. was cited in a presentation ceremony commemorating the 50th anniversary of its participation in the group insurance program with the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

James F. Oates Jr., board chairman of Equitable, presented David G. Hill, president of PPG, with a plaque in recognition of the 50-year-old program during which more than $54,000,000 has been paid in insurance benefits to PPG employees and their beneficiaries.

PPG was one of the first of Pittsburgh's industrial firms and also in the glass industry, to participate in Equitable's group client program which totals more than 11,000 today.

year when not protected by vegetative cover, Archer said.

A windbreak properly located and planted with correct species can greatly reduce this wind damage. The plantings also serve as excellent cover and food for wildlife as well as provide protection from the cold winter winds.

Technical assistance on soils, spacings, species, etc., can be secured through the local Soil and Water Conservation Districts or from the local farm forester, Ohio Division of Forestry and Reclamation.

The planting season will soon be here and interested landowners should be making plans to install this conservation practice by ordering planting stock now, Archer concluded.

Collegian Is Held For Threatening LBJ

KENT, Ohio (AP)—A Kent State University freshman, accused of boasting to his landlord last week that he wanted to kill President Johnson, was arrested by Secret Service agents Tuesday night.

David Virtue of Niles said he wanted to kill President Johnson because he was gaining too much power, a U.S. attorney said.

Red Cross Unit Head Resigns Post

Mrs. G. A. Wyllie, Red Cross Volunteer Services chairman for the past three years, has retired from her post according to Mrs. Roliff Wolford, executive secretary of the local Red Cross Chapter.

Mrs. Wyllie organized the Volunteer Services group soon after she accepted the post with the Red Cross offices.

Replacing Mrs. Wyllie is Mrs. Walter Garner, 235 Sunset Drive. Assistant chairman is Mrs. Herman Will.

Yearly awards will be presented to the various unit chairmen at a luncheon slated for Mar. 24, at the First Methodist Church. All volunteers are invited and asked to bring a guest.

Reservations for the luncheon are to be made by contacting Miss Mary Howard at GR 4-6108 or Mrs. Hedges at GR 4-4777.

Unit chairmen are: Mrs. Alvin Recobs, Buckeye Council; Mrs. Ernest Young, VA Hospital; Mrs. Cyrus Dille, production; Mrs. Jean Steely, Berger Hospital; Mrs. Lowell Toland, staff aid; Mrs. Nolan Dunkle, blood bank; Mrs. John Ankrom, uniform committee; Mrs. Arthur Bowman, nursing service; Mrs. J. Boyd Stout, canteen service; Mrs. C. S. McCloud, water safety; and Mrs. Arthur Bowman and James Roach, first aid instructors.

Sergeant Is Arrested For Slaying Cincy GI

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Army sergeant charged with murdering Pfc. Ira Steven Thompson of Cincinnati—whose skeleton was found by rabbit hunters near Alva, Ga.—has been arrested in Delhi, Calif., according to the FBI.

St. James O. Neal of Conroe, Tex., was arrested on a warrant charging he fled Georgia to avoid prosecution in the slaying of his fellow Ft. Benning soldier.

Carrier Midway Slated For 3-Year Overhaul

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The aircraft carrier Midway is to be decommissioned today for a 75-million conversion project. Navy officials said the work would take about three years and would equip the 62,000-ton carrier to handle heavier aircraft.

The Midway, commissioned in 1945, returned in November from nine months combat duty off Viet Nam.

Library of Congress Guards Its Comic Books

WASHINGTON (AP) — Batman, Superman and other heroes of the golden age of comic books are being kept behind locked doors in the Library of Congress.

But, as Batman's sidekick Robin would put it, Holy Thesis! They're off limits to the kids and are for scholarly research only in the sedate library where the "quiet" signs mean no laughing as well as no talking.

Unless you're a sociologist, a reporter or a graduate student writing a dissertation, you can't get near the library's 12,000 or so comic books.

The comics, dating from the late 1930s to the present, are kept in gray boxes on dusty shelves in two locked corridors of the library's stacks. The collection includes about 2,500 titles and may be the world's largest.

"We don't know of any other library that collects them," says John H. Thaxter, assistant chief of the library's serial division.

They are still coming in — 136 different titles at present — under copyright laws that require that the library receive two copies of every copyright periodical published.

Unlike magazines, there are no bound volumes available, so the library has to take special care of the yellowing, cracking old comics. In addition their value is growing — a copy of the first comic in which Superman appeared sold last year for $100.

"We're giving serious thought to microfilming some of the earlier editions," Thaxter said.

The oldest comic book listed in the library's files is a January 1938 edition of Detective Comics. Although earlier comic books had reprinted newspaper funnies, Detective Comics became the first one with original material when it was first issued in 1937.

A year later, Action Comics came along and gave birth to Superman, followed by Batman who started in Detective Comics but got his own book in 1940.

There seems little difference between the Batman of 25 years ago and the masked figure who darts twice weekly across television screens.

Klan Probe Is Recessed Until Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities has recessed its investigation of the Ku Klux Klan until next Monday, but its staff members will be kept busy analyzing testimony for possible perjury charges.

Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., a committee member, said he requested the analysis. "I think it will show perjury," he said, "and I will send it to the Justice Department for action."

Pool said at one point during Tuesday's hearings that "perjury has been committed" by some witnesses.

His statement came as Mrs. Eloise Witte, a Cincinnati housewife who is "Grand Empress" of the Klan in Ohio, vehemently denied statements made in a letter Daniel Wagner, 19, said he wrote and about which he testified.

This letter detailed conversations Wagner said he had with Mrs. Witte about alleged plots to kill President Johnson and blow up the White House.

Atom Generating Plant Boom Being Predicted

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) —By 1980, about 20 per cent of the nation's electrical power will be supplied by atomic generating plants, according to F. Stewart Brown of the Federal Power Commission.

Brown said 13 atomic plants are now producing a million kilowatts of power and seven more facilities are under construction.

Contributing to this increasing interest has been the removal of natural wind barriers such as fence rows, small woodlots and individual trees. The larger open spaces permit higher wind velocities near the ground surface. This results in soil movement known as wind erosion which not only removes the soil from the field, but often damages young plants by covering or cutting them off at ground surface. Sandy and silt soils are very susceptible to this type of erosion at certain seasons of the year.

Red Cross Unit Head Resigns Post

There were 145 members and guests present for the annual Guest Day Tea and patriotic program conducted Tuesday by Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of The American Revolution in the Social Rooms of The Presbyterian Church.

Winners of the annual American History Month Essay Contest received special recognition and awards. The subject for this year's essay contest was "George Washington's Advice", supervised by Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood, American History Month chairman.

The four girls selected by the High Schools in the County for outstanding citizenship qualities were introduced by Mrs. Kermit Dountz, American Good Citizens chairman.

Mrs. Leora Sayre, chapter historian, explained the policies, procedures, and subject of the annual essay contest. She then introduced and presented the awards to the winners.

During the ritualistic opening, Mrs. Judd Dresbach, regent, presided.

The review of the president general's message was presented by Mrs. Clifton Mahaffey, who paid tribute to two presidents, Washington and Lincoln.

A letter of appreciation for scholarship assistance was read from Inez Eaglesfield of St. Mary's School for Indian Girls at Springfield, S. D.

Guests of local members, those from Mt. Sterling and Lancaster Chapters and the mothers of student contest winners, were introduced and welcomed.

A special introduction was given Miss Ruth Stout, teacher from Washington Township School, who was recently recognized and awarded by Freedom's Foundation as one of the outstanding history teachers in U.S.A. Miss Marie Hamilton explained the chapter's contributions to this Foundation.

Mrs. Martin Cromley and Mrs. Joseph Peters were co-chairmen for the program, "Your Part in My America". Singing was directed by 12 sixth grade students from Williamsport School. Narrators were Mrs. Cromley, Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Dountz, Mrs. Richard Hedges, Mrs. R. R. Bales and Mrs. John Stevenson. The benediction was given by Mrs. Dresbach.

The social hour was planned and directed by Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, chairman; Mrs. William Richards, Mrs. Byrl Stevenson, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. P. Mrs. G. A. Wyllie, Red Cross Volunteer Services chairman for the past three years, has retired from her post according to Mrs. Roloff Wolford, executive secretary of the local Red Cross Chapter.

Mrs. Wyllie organized the Volunteer Services group soon after she accepted the post with the Red Cross offices.

Replacing Mrs. Wyllie is Mrs. Walter Garner, 235 Sunset Drive. Assistant chairman is Mrs. Herman Will.

Yearly awards will be presented to the various unit chairmen at a luncheon slated for Mar. 24, at the First Methodist Church. All volunteers are invited and asked to bring a guest.

Reservations for the luncheon are to be made by contacting Miss Mary Howard at GR 4-6108 or Mrs. Hedges at GR 4-4777.

Unit chairmen are: Mrs. Alvin Recobs, Buckeye Council; Mrs. Ernest Young, VA Hospital; Mrs. Cyrus Dille, productions; Mrs. Jean Steely, Berger Hospital; Mrs. Lowell Toland, staff aid; Mrs. Nolan Dunkle, blood bank; Mrs. John Ankrom, uniform committee; Mrs. Arthur Bowman, nursing service; Mrs. J. Boyd Stout, canteen service; Mrs. C. S. McCloud, water safety; and Mrs. Arthur Bowman and James Roach, first aid instructors.

Sergeant Is Arrested For Slaying Cincy GI

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Army sergeant charged with murdering Pfc. Ira Steven Thompson of Cincinnati—whose skeleton was found by rabbit hunters near Alvaton, Ga.—has been arrested in Delhi, Calif., according to the FBI.

St. James O. Neal of Conroe, Tex., was arrested on a warrant charging he fled Georgia to avoid prosecution in the slaying of his fellow Ft. Benning soldier.

Carrier Midway Slated For 3-Year Overhaul

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The aircraft carrier Midway is to be decommissioned today for a 75-million conversion project. Navy officials said the work would take about three years and would equip the 62,000-ton carrier to handle heavier aircraft.

The Midway, commissioned in 1945, returned in November from nine months combat duty off Viet Nam.

Library of Congress Guards Its Comic Books

WASHINGTON (AP) — Batman, Superman and other heroes of the golden age of comic books are being kept behind locked doors in the Library of Congress.

But, as Batman's sidekick Robin would put it, Holy Thesis!

They're off limits to the kids and are for scholarly research only in the sedate library where the "quiet" signs mean no laughing as well as no talking.

Unless you're a sociologist, a reporter or a graduate student writing a dissertation, you can't get near the library's 12,000 or so comic books.

The comics, dating from the late 1930s to the present, are kept in gray boxes on dusty shelves in two locked corridors of the library's stacks. The collection includes about 2,500 titles and may be the world's largest.

"We don't know of any other library that collects them," says John H. Thaxter, assistant chief of the library's serial division.

They are still coming in — 136 different titles at present — under copyright laws that require that the library receive two copies of every copyright periodical published.

Unlike magazines, there are no bound volumes available, so the library has to take special care of the yellowing, cracking old comics. In addition their value is growing — a copy of the first comic in which Superman appeared sold last year for $100.

"We're giving serious thought to microfilming some of the earlier editions," Thaxter said.

The oldest comic book listed in the library's files is a January 1938 edition of Detective Comics. Although earlier comic books had reprinted newspaper funnies, Detective Comics became the first one with original material when it was first issued in 1937.

A year later, Action Comics came along and gave birth to Superman, followed by Batman who started in Detective Comics but got his own book in 1940.

There seems little difference between the Batman of 25 years ago and the masked figure who darts twice weekly across television screens.

Klan Probe Is Recessed Until Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities has recessed its investigation of the Ku Klux Klan until next Monday, but its staff members will be kept busy analyzing testimony for possible perjury charges.

Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., a committee member, said he requested the analysis. "I think it will show perjury," he said, "and I will send it to the Justice Department for action."

Pool said at one point during Tuesday's hearings that "perjury has been committed" by some witnesses.

His statement came as Mrs. Eloise Witte, a Cincinnati housewife who is "Grand Empress" of the Klan in Ohio, vehemently denied statements made in a letter Daniel Wagner, 19, said he wrote and about which he testified.

This letter detailed conversations Wagner said he had with Mrs. Witte about alleged plots to kill President Johnson and blow up the White House.

Atom Generating Plant Boom Being Predicted

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — By 1980, about 20 per cent of the nation's electrical power will be supplied by atomic generating plants, according to F. Stewart Brown of the Federal Power Commission.

Brown said 13 atomic plants are now producing a million kilowatts of power and seven more facilities are under construction.

Dayton-Loyola Clash Awaited

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Fast-moving Chicago Loyola tangles with powerful Dayton here tonight in a prestige battle that could vault the Flyers into the top ten rankings.

Loyola, ranked No. 4 in the nation in the latest Associated Press poll, has a gaudy 18-2 record, losing only to Oklahoma City, very early in the season, and to Wichita a week ago.

Dayton, always a strong independent, has swept aside 18 opponents with losses to Maryland, Cincinnati and Louisville.

The game figures to match Loyola's speed against Dayton's controlled game. Both teams rebound and shoot well.

Flyers' coach Don Donohue is impressed by scouting reports on the Ramblers.

"Balance and quickness is what makes them such a great club. Loyola is small but its quickness and ability to leap makes up for lack of size," Donohue said.

Draft Board Again Studies Clay's Case

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The chairman of Cassius Clay's draft board says "it would make sense" if the Army delayed Clay's induction until after his March 29 heavyweight title fight with Ernie Terrell because of the tax money the fight would produce.

"But I don't expect it," J. Allen Sherman said Tuesday. "They haven't done it before."

Estimates of tax income from the fight are in the $500,000 range.

"It's still not certain whether Clay will be in our March call, anyway," Sherman said. "Our March quota hasn't been assigned."

Sherman said the board will meet Thursday, be given the quota, and classify the eligible men. Then, he said, inductees will be selected by age.

Clay, at 24, is two years below the maximum age and unmarried. "So he's pretty close to the top of the list," Sherman said.

Clay will have 10 days from the time he receives his induction notice to appeal, Sherman said.

"I don't know what ground, if any, he has, or if he'll ask for a deferment," Sherman said. He said deferments currently are given for student status, marriage and certain occupations.

"But fighting's not one of them," he said.

"The Army might have some other deferment for Clay, though," Sherman said he doesn't think Clay's scheduled fight would present legal ground for deferment. "Clay is as good as I-A now," he said.

All Cubs Signed For '66 Season

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs won the major league contract-signing derby for the seventh straight year today when pitcher Bob Humphreys became the 39th and last rostered player to accept terms for 1966.

It was the eighth successive year the Cubs were the first National League club to complete contract signings.

Humphreys worked 66 innings in 41 games for the Cubs last season, posting a 2-0 record and an earned-run average of 3.14.

Catcher Ed Bailey, 34, who was sold outright to the California Angels Tuesday previously had signed his 1966 Cub contract.

All eight divisional champions in the 1965 Golden Gloves boxing tournament at Kansas City were 19 years old or younger except for Don Cobb, 22, St. Louis welterweight. The age limit is 26.

Class A Tournament Starts; Other Cage Action Light

With the sectional basketball tournament slated to get under way Saturday afternoon at Teays Valley, other cage action is at a minimum.

Of the three county schools, only Logan Elm has a game Friday. The Braves will travel to Zane Trace for a tilt with the Pioneers.

Westfall, who will open sectional play 2:30 p. m. Saturday in a meeting with Columbus St. Mary, has postponed a game with Piketon, originally scheduled Friday, until Monday. A Saturday game with Hamilton Twp. has been cancelled.

Teays Valley has no game on tap Friday and will travel to Circleville Saturday.

ZANE TRACE was coasting along in second place in the Ross County League until successive losses to Huntington and Southeastern dropped them to third. However, the Pioneers are always hard to handle on their home floor.

Logan Elm's last two games have been losses — first to Huntington and then to tall Bishop Flager.

With the Pioneers fielding only one player over 6-0, the height advantage will go to the Braves. But what they lack in height, the Pioneers make up for in quickness.

Coach Bob Sigler feels his Trace quintet is at its best when running. Logan Elm is usually at its peak when the game is slowed down.

Robby Roll, 6-1½, is the Zane Trace center. Guiding the Pioneer offense are a pair of veteran guards, Dave Large and Francis Breeden. Breeden is the team's leading scorer.

At forwards are Ron Edwards, 5-10½, and Bob Maxwell, 6-0.

COLUMBUS St. Mary, second seeded team in the Teays Valley sectional, wrapped up its season last night by defeating Rosary, 60-34.

It was the 14th win in 17 starts for the Franklin County League team, and sixth victory in eight league games.

Larry Wilson's Mustangs have size, speed and balanced scoring, with six players capable of cracking double digit scoring.

If Wilson's team passes the first hurdle in the sectional, they will face Columbus Academy 7 p. m. Feb. 26.

Benis Lutz, manager of the Teays Valley Sectional, has pointed out that no pep bands, noise makers or confetti are permitted at any tournament site by the district board.

Doors will open at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, one hour prior to the game time. Westfall will be the home team and will wear white uniforms.

Saturday evening, Columbus University and Rosary tangle at 7 p. m. while The Plains of Mt. Sterling will meet Ohio Deaf at 8:30 p. m.

SADDLE-BRidle MEMBERSHIP — Ralph Starkey (left) treasurer and membership drive chairman for the Pickaway Saddle and Bridle Club launches the annual drive by selling Judge Guy G. Cline a membership to the local horse club. Opening of the annual member campaign also signifies beginning of planning and preparation for the fifth annual Kiwanis Charity Horse Show. The event will be held May 28-29 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

NFL Research Report On Expansion Is Studied

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The National Football League continued the job of stocking its new Atlanta franchise today and it talked about expansion to 16 clubs in 1967.

While the Atlanta Falcons were picking the 42 veterans who will form a base for their 1966 operation, the owners considered the expansion report from the Stanford Research Institute.

The institute's report was strictly confidential. Commissioner Pete Rozelle clamped the lid on all pertinent information about the surveys of Boston, Cincinnati, Houston, New Orleans, La.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash.

"We expect to expand to 16 clubs, probably in 1967," said Rozelle. "I think we will then have two eight-team conferences, each divided into two four-team divisions. The division winners will play, and the two survivors will meet for the league championship."

Although the Stanford people said they had rated the seven cities on the basis of potential NFL attendance, stadium facilities, season ticket potential and estimated revenue from attendance and concessions, they refused to say if any one city was in the lead.

"This is as much as we can give out without making a circus of it," said Rozelle. "After our owners have a chance to evaluate their 200-page report, we will place our own weight on the ratings they have given."

"There is no precise timetable for the selection. The decision on the location of the franchise will be made only after the thorough study of the survey and the consideration of all other factors."

It is likely that the decision will be made at the spring meeting in late April. No site has been selected for that meeting.

A proposal to increase the player limit from 40 to 42 was rejected. That means the new Atlanta team, which was granted special privileges, will be able to retain 46 men during the first two weeks of the season and 42 the rest of the way.

Owner Rankin Smith, Coach Norb Hecker and director of personnel Gene Cronin worked all day Tuesday and into today picking the players made available by the 14 teams which operated in 1965.

Atlanta was permitted to select one player from a list of 11 submitted by each club. Then the lists were turned back to the clubs who exempted two additional veterans. Atlanta then took two more from a list of eight submitted by each club.

At the end of the selection process the Falcons would have 42 veterans, plus the 32 rookies they signed after the college draft and 19 free agent veterans.

Westfall Wins Freshman Tilt At Reynoldsburg

Westfall, behind the combined 42-point scoring of Gene Carfrey and Bob Barnes, handed Watkins Memorial an 80-30 defeat Tuesday in the annual Reynoldsburg Freshman Basketball Tournament.

The Mustang frosh now meet the winner of tonight's Circleville-Reynoldsburg game at 8:30 p. m. Friday.

Barnes had 22 points and Carfrey 20 for the winners. Ed Cronwell and Jeff Thomlinson evenly divided 24 to add to the winning offense.

Bumburg tallied 10 for the losers.

The New York Yankees will have three over 30 pitchers this season. Whitey Ford is 37, Bob Friend 35 and Pete Ramos 30.

Cage Player, 15, Collapses, Dies

MOUNT HOREB, Wis. (AP) — A 15-year-old basketball player collapsed during a high school practice scrimmage Tuesday and died of what authorities said was a heart attack that couldn't be explained.

The freshman athlete, Karl Baertschy, suffered an apparent dizzy spell, his coach, Larry Dangerfield, said. "He just walked over to the side and leaned against the bleachers and collapsed," said the coach. An autopsy attributed death to a heart seizure. Coroner Clyde Chamberlain Jr. of Madison, Wis., said, "His death was apparently the result of an irregular heart beat which cannot be explained."

Kansas Looms As Winner of Big Eight Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the first time since Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain was a sophomore in 1957, the Kansas Jayhawks may win an undisputed Big Eight Conference basketball championship this season.

Seventh-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll, the Jayhawks impressed Tuesday night with a 98-54 home-court thumping of Missouri. Walt Wesley's 25 points and 13 rebounds paced the Jayhawks to their 17th triumph in 20 games, including 8-1 in league play.

All three defeats were suffered on the road to UCLA, Southern California and Nebraska, and the Jayhawks are favored to turn the tables on Nebraska late this month. Nebraska currently leads the Big Eight at 8-0.

The eighth-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia, the only other team in the AP Top Ten to see action, also impressed with an 83-79 road victory over Davidson at Charlotte. Cliff Anderson's lay-up and two free throws by Matt Guokas provided the winning margin for the Hawks in the closing minutes after Davidson had taken a 77-75 lead.

Anderson and Guokas each got 23 points to boost the Hawks' record to 18-4. Rod Knowles, with 23, and Dick Snyder, with 22, led Davidson.

Iowa virtually eliminated Minnesota from the Big Ten race with a 96-87 home-court triumph over the Gophers. George Washington ended a 12-game losing streak by defeating East Carolina 86-80 at home and Rice lost its 28th straight, including 18 this season, by dropping a 73-67 decision on the road to Arkansas.

Southern Methodist moved within one game of leading Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference by beating Baylor 68-66 on the road as Texas Tech, playing at home, handed the first-place Aggies their second straight SWC defeat 98-85.

In other major games, Rutgers beat Navy 69-65, Boston College took Boston University 73-62, Rhode Island downed Holy Cross 84-68, Connecticut thumped New Hampshire 113-62, 44.

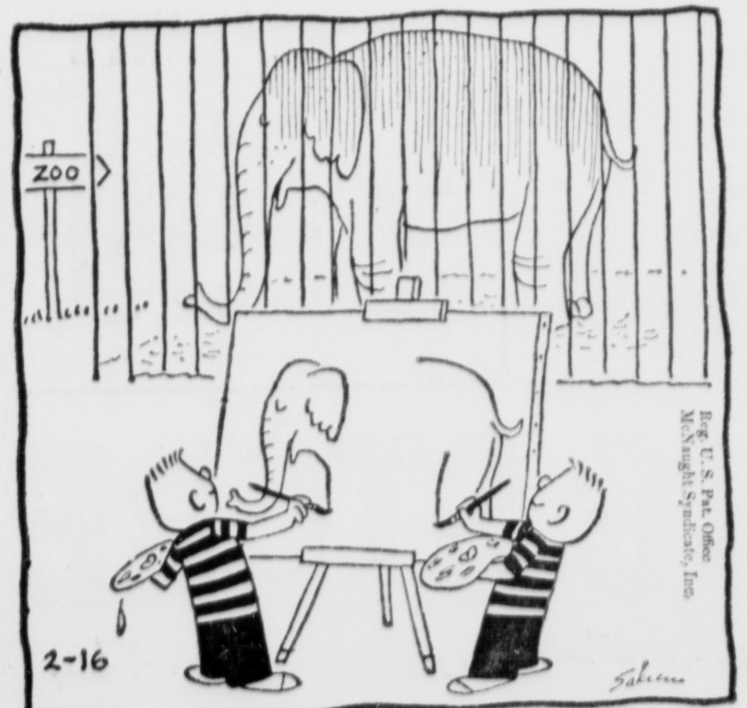

NEXT FOR CLAY—Ernie Terrell, the Chicago heavy who ranks as the World Boxing Assoc. king, is the next foe of Cassius Clay, the recognized heavy champ, with the bout set for Chicago soon.

Duquesne nipped Kent State 70-66, Texas defeated Texas Christian 85-77, St. John's of New York crushed Notre Dame 77-59 and Miami of Ohio whacked Marshall 71-52. All were road triumphs.

At home, N.C. State took North Carolina 87-77, Furman edged Virginia Military 73-72, Memphis State whipped Miami 73-62, Rhode Island downed Holy Cross 84-68, Connecticut thumped New Hampshire 113-62, 44.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — YU 3-5731

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Sliwinski announce the birth of a daughter, Jennifer, Feb. 3 at Doctors Hospital, Columbus.

John Hardin, former Superintendent of the Ashville Schools, is confined to North Hudson Hospital in West New York, N. J. He suffered a kidney stone attack while enroute to a convention in Atlantic City.

Nelson Embry of Radio Station WNRE, Circleville, was guest speaker at the Feb. 8 Kiwanis Club meeting. He presented a talk on the problems involved in launching a new station.

The annual steak and bean dinner was served by the Pythian Sisters. Winners of the Kiwanis Newspaper ad contest enjoyed steak and the losers settled for beans and cornbread.

Russell Gregg was to be the speaker at the next meeting.

Mrs. Daphne Miller has been confined to her home after suffering a heart attack.

The Bastian Funeral Home ambulance moved Madeleine Stallanger to the Lockbourne Air Force Base Hospital Feb. 7 and took Isaac Cramblit to Grant Hospital Feb. 14.

Mr. Raymond Smith of Millport returned home Monday from Doctors Hospital where he had undergone knee surgery.

The Ashville Girl Scout Neighborhood met in the Methodist Church Monday for a regular monthly meeting. Mrs. James Irwin, neighborhood chairman, presided during the business session. Mrs. Richard Foreman and Mrs. Charles Morrison, with Mrs. Harry Rife, Jr. as alternate, were elected as Council Delegates.

Plans were completed to have an International Dinner for all Brownies and Girl Scouts on Mar. 1. A short program will be presented followed by the dinner. This event is planned for "Girl Scout Thinking Day."

Girl Scout Sunday will be observed on Mar. 6 and all girls are to attend their own church in uniform. The Neighborhood will provide church bulletins and altar flowers for Churches in the area. All troops are planning to have a window display in the downtown area during Girl Scout Week. An annual party will be held in Veterans Memorial in Columbus and Ashville Scouts will attend.

David Bozman, son of Mrs. Mary Ann Bozman and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bozman, is a patient in Youngstown Hospital where he has been undergoing tests and treatment.

Members of the Ashville Junior High Basketball team, Coach Lawrence Fullen and the cheerleaders were honored at a party following the Junior High Tournament Saturday night.

Hosted by parents of team members, the event was held in the school auditorium. School colors of orange and black were used to decorate the tables. A large decorated cake inscribed with "Junior High Champions" centered the serving table.

Ham sandwiches, potato chips, mints, ice cream and cake were served to team members Rex Gregg, who received the Most Valuable Player

Award at the tournament, Van Gregg, Rick Teets, Jeff Helser, Danny Hicks, Keith Roese, Brent Roof, Larry Dixon, Ed McCord, Jim Chandler, Mike Forquer and Kelly Leatherwood, Manager, Mike Schiff. Cheerleaders, Karen Lombardo, Bonnie Peters, Angie Roese, Susan Sabine and Glenda Wilcoxon and scorekeeper, Jody Deal.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fullen, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fullen and Miss Kathaleen Switzer.

The remainder of the evening was spent taking group pictures and dancing.

Esquire Rank will be conferred on candidates at the Feb. 23 meeting of the Knights of Pythias. Chancellors commander Chester Fortner will preside during the evening. Refreshments will be served.

The Past Chiefs Club of the Pythian Sisters will meet in the KofP Hall Feb. 24 at 7:30 p. m. Hostesses will be Pearl Fortner, Edith Hudson, Carolyn Peters, Kate Lemon and Fannie Millar.

The Ashville-Harrison PTA will meet in the school auditorium, 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Open House for Grades One and Two will be observed.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Krieger and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Leatherwood have returned home after a two-week vacation in Florida.

Ex-TB Society Aide Admits Fund Thefts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A former Tuberculosis Society employee has admitted stealing from the group's contributions for several years.

Donald Noble, 33, of nearby Grove City, pleaded guilty to the charges in court here Tuesday. Sentencing was deferred. Postal inspectors said Noble admitted taking contributions but did not say how much was involved.

Shippers Eye Rain on Lakes

Boatmen Happy To See Level Up

CLEVELAND (AP) — When the rains add more water to Lake Erie and other Great Lakes, it's pennies from heaven for commercial lake carriers and a better season for the yachtsman.

A recent lake survey by army engineers shows an increase in the water levels of all the Great Lakes—from a couple of inches to a couple of feet.

It means lake carriers "can carry considerable additional tonnage," said a spokesman for the Lake Carriers Association here.

"It means less chance of bumping the bottom," said Cleveland attorney Al Mastic, yachting editor of the Plain Dealer.

The engineers' forecast is that both Lake Erie and Lake Ontario will be almost a foot higher than last year. Lake Erie already is 10 inches above its 1965 level.

For every inch added to the water level, shippers are permitted to add an additional 60 to 100 tons to the hold, depending on the size of the ship.

During the 1965 season, Great Lakes shipping amounted to 195, 331,784 net tons of bulk commodities, an increase of three million tons over 1964. The Lake Carriers Association says 1966 should be an even more successful year because of the increased water levels.

Lake St. Clair, a major connecting link between Lake Erie and Lake Huron, is up one foot, seven inches, from mid-February 1965, and the engineers expect it to gain almost that much more by summer.

"It will save a tremendous amount of money, because dredging costs a fortune," said Mastic, speaking from the yachtsman's point of view.

He said the increased levels will mean that the engineers will not have to dredge as much in the lakes and that yacht clubs won't have to dredge as much at their private installations.

Engineers said the rising water levels are due to heavy precipitation in the fall of 1965.

Burma Train Mishap Brings Death to 23

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The toll in the derailment of a passenger train 370 miles north-east of Rangoon rose today to 23 dead and 30 critically injured, according to reports reaching Rangoon.

The passenger train was traveling at full speed just out of Shwenyaung when it ran off the rails Monday. Seven coaches crashed into a deep valley.

It was Burma's second rail disaster in 10 weeks.

The United States severed diplomatic relations with Cuba Jan. 3, 1961.

DON HARTLEY

Vet Carrier Had His Eye On Progress

Don Hartley, a senior at Logan Elm High School, has resigned as carrier of The Herald in the Village of Tarlton after more than six years of service.

Hartley had built his route to a point where more than 70 per cent of the residents in the Tarlton area subscribed to The Herald. Of the approximate 160 families in the area, 117 are his customers.

When the Tarlton youth took over the route, while he was still in the sixth grade, there were only about 50 subscribers.

Don now has a part time job at Wolfe's Grocery in the village. He plans to continue working after graduation until he decides what to do about his military obligation. Then he'll plan his future which may include going on to college.

HARTLEY had some assistance with the paper route from his younger sister and brother, Dale and Susan. Money they earned on the paper route went for the purchase of school clothing, lunches and "spending money." The LE senior was proud that he could assist with the family budget in this way.

Taking over the Tarlton route for Hartley are Rick and Barney Carter. The brothers plan to share responsibilities of the home delivery route.

Insurance Firm Hikes Its Economic Forecast

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The Prudential Insurance Co. has revised upwards its economic forecast for 1966.

A spokesman said the company estimated the 1966 gross national product at $726 billion, instead of $714 billion predicted last November.

The revision was based on the possibility of a buildup in armed forces strength, the company said.

Assailant Of Rabbi Dies at 23

DETROIT (AP) — Richard Wisnietzky, 23, who shot the rabbi of his congregation before turning a pistol on himself, died of his wound today.

Wisnietzky, brilliant honors student and one-time mental patient, shot himself in the head Saturday after twice shooting Rabbi Morris Adler, 59, internationally known Jewish leader, as the rabbi conducted Sabbath services Saturday.

Rabbi Adler, in the intensive care unit of Sinai Hospital, remained in grave condition. Doctors who performed brain surgery on the rabbi for the second time Monday, said Tuesday they noted "a few small gains which suggest an improving trend."

Wisnietzky, a former Woodrow Wilson scholar at the University of Michigan before being committed to a Michigan mental institution, had been receiving counseling from Rabbi Adler.

Wisnietzky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wisnietzky, remained by the young man's bedside until his death.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — YU 3-5731

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Sliwinski announce the birth of a daughter, Jennifer, Feb. 3 at Doctors Hospital, Columbus.

John Hardin, former Superintendent of the Ashville Schools, is confined to North Hudson Hospital in West New York, N. J. He suffered a kidney stone attack while enroute to a convention in Atlantic City.

Nelson Embry of Radio Station WNRE, Circleville, was guest speaker at the Feb. 8 Kiwanis Club meeting. He presented a talk on the problems involved in launching a new station.

The annual steak and bean dinner was served by the Pythian Sisters. Winners of the Kiwanis Newspaper ad contest enjoyed steak and the losers settled for beans and cornbread.

Russell Gregg was to be the speaker at the next meeting.

Mrs. Daphne Miller has been confined to her home after suffering a heart attack.

The Bastian Funeral Home ambulance moved Madeline Stallinger to the Lockbourne Air Force Base Hospital Feb. 7 and took Isaac Cramblit to Grant Hospital Feb. 14.

Mr. Raymond Smith of Millport returned home Monday from Doctors Hospital where he had undergone knee surgery.

The Ashville Girl Scout Neighborhood met in the Methodist Church Monday for a regular monthly meeting. Mrs. James Irwin, neighborhood chairman, presided during the business session. Mrs. Richard Foreman and Mrs. Charles Morrison, with Mrs. Harry Rife, Jr. as alternate, were elected as Council Delegates.

Plans were completed to have an International Dinner for all Brownies and Girl Scouts on Mar. 1. A short program will be presented followed by the dinner. This event is planned for "Girl Scout Thinking Day."

Girl Scout Sunday will be observed on Mar. 6 and all girls are to attend their own church in uniform. The Neighborhood will provide church bulletins and altar flowers for Churches in the area. All troops are planning to have a window display in the downtown area during Girl Scout Week. An annual party will be held in Veterans Memorial in Columbus and Ashville Scouts will attend.

David Bozman, son of Mrs. Mary Ann Bozman and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bozman, is a patient in Youngstown Hospital where he has been undergoing tests and treatment.

Members of the Ashville Junior High Basketball team, Coach Lawrence Fullen and the cheerleaders were honored at a party following the Junior High Tournament Saturday night.

Hosted by parents of team members, the event was held in the school auditorium. School colors of orange and black were used to decorate the tables. A large decorated cake inscribed with "Junior High Champions" centered the serving table.

Ham sandwiches, potato chips, mints, ice cream and cake were served to team members Rex Gregg, who received the Most Valuable Player

Ex-TB Society Aide Admits Fund Thefts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A former Tuberculosis Society employe has admitted stealing from the group's contributions for several years.

Donald Noble, 33, of nearby Grove City, pleaded guilty to the charges in court here Tuesday. Sentencing was deferred. Postal inspectors said Noble admitted taking contributions but did not say how much was involved.

Shippers Eye Rain on Lakes

Boatmen Happy To See Level Up

CLEVELAND (AP) — When the rains add more water to Lake Erie and other Great Lakes, it's pennies from heaven for commercial lake carriers and a better season for the yachtsman.

A recent lake survey by army engineers shows an increase in the water levels of all the Great Lakes—from a couple of inches to a couple of feet.

It means lake carriers "can carry considerable additional tonnage," said a spokesman for the Lake Carriers Association here.

"It means less chance of bumping the bottom," said Cleveland attorney Al Mastics, yachting editor of the Plain Dealer.

The engineers' forecast is that both Lake Erie and Lake Ontario will be almost a foot higher than last year. Lake Erie already is 10 inches above its 1965 level.

For every inch added to the water level, shippers are permitted to add an additional 60 to 100 tons to the hold, depending on the size of the ship.

During the 1965 season, Great Lakes shipping amounted to 195,331,784 net tons of bulk commodities, an increase of three million tons over 1964. The Lake Carriers Association says 1966 should be an even more successful year because of the increased water levels.

Lake St. Clair, a major connecting link between Lake Erie and Lake Huron, is up one foot, seven inches, from mid-February 1965, and the engineers expect it to gain almost that much more by summer.

"It will save a tremendous amount of money, because dredging costs a fortune," said Mastics, speaking from the yachtsman's point of view. He said the increased levels will mean that the engineers will not have to dredge as much in the lakes and that yacht clubs won't have to dredge as much at their private installations.

Engineers said the rising water levels are due to heavy precipitation in the fall of 1965.

Burma Train Mishap Brings Death to 23

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The toll in the derailment of a passenger train 370 miles northeast of Rangoon rose today to 23 dead and 30 critically injured, according to reports reaching Rangoon.

The passenger train was traveling at full speed just out of Shwenyaung when it ran off the rails Monday. Seven coaches crashed into a deep valley. It was Burma's second rail disaster in 10 weeks.

The United States severed diplomatic relations with Cuba Jan. 3, 1961.

DON HARTLEY

Vet Carrier Had His Eye On Progress

Don Hartley, a senior at Logan Elm High School, has resigned as carrier of The Herald in the Village of Tarlton after more than six years of service.

Hartley had built his route to a point where more than 70 per cent of the residents in the Tarlton area subscribed to The Herald. Of the approximate 160 families in the area, 117 are his customers.

When the Tarlton youth took over the route, while he was still in the sixth grade, there were only about 50 subscribers.

Don now has a part time job at Wolfe's Grocery in the village. He plans to continue working after graduation until he decides what to do about his military obligation. Then he'll plan his future which may include going on to college.

HARTLEY had some assistance with the paper route from his younger sister and brother, Dale and Susan. Money they earned on the paper route went for the purchase of school clothing, lunches and "spending money." The LE senior was proud that he could assist with the family budget in this way. Taking over the Tarlton route for Hartley are Rick and Barney Carter. The brothers plan to share responsibilities of the home delivery route.

Insurance Firm Hikes Its Economic Forecast

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The Prudential Insurance Co. has revised upwards its economic forecast for 1966.

A spokesman said the company estimated the 1966 gross national product at $726 billion, instead of $714 billion predicted last November.

The revision was based on the possibility of a buildup in armed forces strength, the company said.

Assailant Of Rabbi Dies at 23

DETROIT (AP) — Richard Wishnetsky, 23, who shot the rabbi of his congregation before turning a pistol on himself, died of his wound today.

Wishnetsky, brilliant honors student and one-time mental patient, shot himself in the head Saturday after twice shooting Rabbi Morris Adler, 59, internationally known Jewish leader, as the rabbi conducted Sabbath services Saturday.

Rabbi Adler, in the intensive care unit of Sinai Hospital, remained in grave condition. Doctors who performed brain surgery on the rabbi for the second time Monday, said Tuesday they noted "a few small gains which suggest an improving trend."

Wishnetsky, a former Woodrow Wilson scholar at the University of Michigan before being committed to a Michigan mental institution, had been receiving counseling from Rabbi Adler.

Wishnetsky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wishnetsky, remained by the young man's bedside until his death.
